LOWELL SHOPPERS OUT IN FORCE

SATURDAY SHOPPERS SWARM DOWN-TOWN STORES IN RECORD-BREAKING NUMBERS

Clerks Find Busiest Day of Season Starts With Rush as Doors Open and Gains Momentum Throughout Day—Bargain Specials Advertised Friday Made Great Appeal

The biggest Saturday shopping crowds that downtown Lowell has seen in several months arrived in the business section early this morning and put over for Lowell merchants what bids fair to be the biggest buying day of 1923.

The streets were lined with hustling shoppers throughout the day. In the banks from early morning lines of faithful depositors stood at the receiving windows to make their regular weekly deposits. At the gas company

BAD NEWS FOR LUDWIG COVERS YEAR'S TUITION

Fortune Teller's Story Caused Dracul Man to Abuse His Wife

Ludwig Stackelmann, who lives in Dracut, went to have a seance with a fortune teller and she told him that he was going to die and that his wife would remarry. The thought of his wife marrying another man was too much for Ludwig and he upbraided her for it, but, as she said, she could not convince him that such a thought never entered her head.

The prophecy of the seer, however, kept uppermost in Ludwig's mind, and he then began to beat up his wife, according to the story she told Judge Enright in district court this morning. The last assault, upon which she had him arrested, occurred Thursday night, she said.

Judge Enright sternly lectured the defendant for his queer behavior, and made it clear that if brought before the court again he would get a jail sentence. A suspended sentence of four months in the house of correction was imposed.

INQUEST BEING HELD
WARREN, Oct. 13.—Associate Justice D. D. Sullivan, of Middleboro, presided over the inquest held today in Warren district court on John T. Bishop, owner of garage proprietor, who died from wounds inflicted in his garage last Saturday.

COVERS YEAR'S TUITION

Brendan V. McAdams Awarded Fred C. Weld Harvard Memorial Scholarship

The Lowell Harvard club announced today the award of the Fred C. Weld memorial scholarship for 1923 to Brendan V. McAdams, son of the late Dr. James P. McAdams. It covers a year's tuition.

Brendan McAdams was graduated from Lowell high school in 1921, but returned in 1922 for post graduate work. He entered Harvard this September. Between the years 1917 and 1920 he was at Exeter where he was prominent in athletics, but his greatest prominence in the world of scholastic sport came during his senior and post graduate years at the local school where he played on the football, baseball and basketball teams and was captain of the last named. He also was a member of the glen club and Greenhatch debating society. At present he is a member of the Harvard second team football squad and will be one of the trial horses for the variety all season.

SALE TODAY OF OLD GREENWOOD ESTATE

The old Greenwood estate, at the corner of Bridge and Thirtieth streets, was sold today through the office of T. H. Elliott to Michael C. Brennan, the grantors being Othello C. Greenwood and the heirs of Marcella Greenwood.

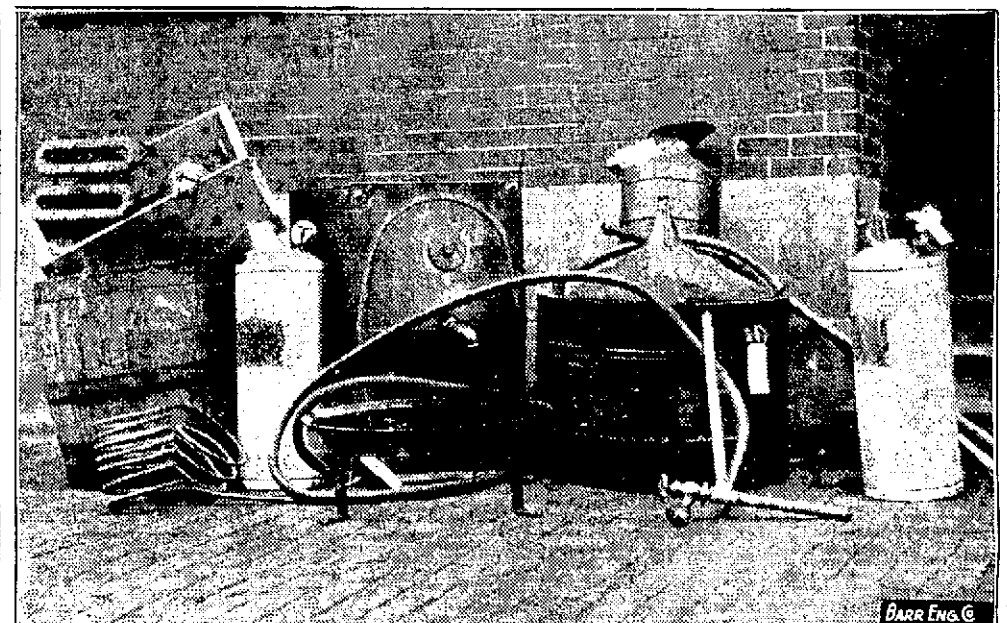

The estate is one of the oldest landmarks in the Centralville section and has been in the Greenwood family for many years. It comprises two residences, a large house of the mansion type with 15 or 16 rooms and an eight-room house. The former is numbered 349 Bridge street and the latter 14 Thirtieth street. The total estate covers 67,651 square feet of land and is assessed at $12,500. The selling price was approximately $15,000.

The Mr. Brennan who purchased this property purchased the Major Stock residence in Belvidere some time ago and remodeled it into numerous small apartments. While his intentions in regard to the Greenwood place are not definitely known, it is believed that he will do the same with it.

Biggest Liquor Raid Ever Made in Lowell Results in $8000 Seizure by Police

STILLS AND PARAPHERNALIA SEIZED IN $8000 RAID

A sensational early-morning seizure of over $7000 worth of re-distilled alcohol, and two stills with a valuation of $500 each, was made today by Sgt. Wain and Officers Liston, Leahy, Conroy and Moore of the liquor squad, the confiscation taking place in a large barn in the rear of 145 Butman road, at four o'clock, after an all-night vigil by Officers Liston and Leahy.

Shortly before noon this morning George Manos of Common street, put in an appearance at the police station, accompanied by his counsel, Attorney George Togo, and Manos claimed he was the owner of the still and the contents seized by the police. He was taken before Judge Enright and pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal keeping. Manos was treated as an ordinary first offender charged with illegal keeping, and a fine of $100 was imposed by the court.

WILLIAM A. GRAHAM'S FATHER IS DYING

The chamber of commerce and Lowell police have been requested to help locate William A. Graham, a loomfixer, who worked in Lowell mills during 1916. His father is dying at his home in Springfield and desires to see his son before he dies.

Requests that efforts be made to locate him are from C. H. Evans, 435 Court Square building, Springfield, who says Mr. Graham while here resided at 271 High street. Efforts to locate him at that address or to find persons in the neighborhood who might remember him have proved futile. Officials of the loomfixers' local here will be asked to aid in finding Mr. Graham.

TRAFFIC CONDITIONS AT WORST TODAY

No better exemplification of the need of improved traffic conditions downtown could be afforded than the jam which occurred in Central street between Market and Warren streets at just 11 o'clock this forenoon. Four solid lines of pleasure cars and automobile trucks were moving toward the postoffice when they encountered similar lines traveling toward the square. The result was an absolute blockade and nothing moved for seven minutes. Just at a time when the street railway company was making every effort to provide transportation for the noon hour, several of its cars were caught in the jam and were thrown 10 minutes off schedule.

SULLIVAN ABOARD LINER LEVIATHAN

James J. Bruin, chairman of the Sullivan reception committee received a radio message today announcing that Henry Sullivan, the famous channel swimmer, is a passenger on the Great Liner Leviathan. The message is as follows:
S. S. Leviathan via R. C. Chatham, Mass., Oct. 13, 1923.
James Bruin, Lowell, Mass. Sullivan is aboard.
No Signature.

RECEPTION FUND SHOWS SLIGHT INCREASE

As the monster steamship Leviathan, pride of the American passenger fleet, races to port bearing Henry Sullivan, Lowell man who swam the English channel, the committee in charge of arrangements for a proper home-coming reception is active in taking care of the last details in connection with the greeting of a proud city to a distinguished son.

The Sullivan reception fund, which is being taken care of at the office of the chamber of commerce, today showed a slight increase over yesterday's total figures. The nearing of the champion swimmer and the fact that his celebration is now only a matter of hours difference is expected to afford great stimulation to the fund drive. The total amount raised thus far is $2035.05.

Acknowledged through the editors yesterday of The Sun was $2012.05. Since that time donations of $10 each have been received from John F. Harrigan and Albin Allard. Donations of $5 by Patrick Nestor and of $2 by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Driscoll complete the roll to noon today.

SCOTT AND SHAWKEY SENT TO THE MOUND IN FOURTH GAME OF WORLD SERIES

Former Boston Brave Pitcher, Hero of Last Year's Series, Sent Into Box for Giants—Pipp Back in Game for Yankees—"Bob" Hart Umpire-in-Chief Today

POLY GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 13. (By the Associated Press) Back across the muddy Harlem today came the New York Nationals and New York Americans to do battle in the fourth game of the 1923 world's series.

Awaiting at noon the appearance of the two teams, in the most crucial of the year's contests, were between 15,000 and 20,000 fans who completely filled the small cracker box bleachers and more than half of the reserved seats of the double-decked grandstand. Several hundred of them stood in line part of the night and when the gates were thrown open, the bleachers were quickly filled.

It was the nearest approach to summer weather which had been vouchsafed the series. The sun was warm, but it had to penetrate layers of mist and muck that settled over the oval enclosure. Some of the optimistic bleacherites sat in shirtsleeves.

Hurled From Auto to Her Death

SALISBURY, Conn., Oct. 13.—The body of Mrs. A. E. Edelman, 58, a domestic of an inn here, was found partly clad, on the Mount Royal road last night by Thomas Hanoffi, a lumber contractor. Some feet away a small automobile truck was in the ditch. While officers at first thought the woman had been murdered because of a hole in the head and blood on the body, Medical Examiner Bissell finally gave the opinion she had died from a fractured skull and bruises on the body as a result of being thrown from the truck.

Near Anarchy in Duesseldorf

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Duesseldorf was thrown into a state approximating anarchy today by throngs of desperate unemployed workers who during the early morning hours began a campaign of systematic plundering. The pillaging started in the suburb of Oberlik during the night and spread to various parts of the city when the plunderers found themselves virtually unopposed.

PAPYRUS IS OFF FORM MANY MARKED FOR DEATH

British Turfman Predicts $100,000 Horse Race Will Be Postponed

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—J. B. Joel, widely known British turfman, predicted today before smiling on the majestic that the $100,000 international horse race scheduled for Belmont park next Saturday, would have to be postponed or cancelled because of the condition of Papyrus, the British Derby winner matched against Zev, the American contender. Joel, who released Jockey Steve Donoghue, now on his way to this country, from a contract so that he might ride Papyrus, said he had abandoned his intention of witnessing the race because its sporting quality had been taken away by the inequality of the horses.

Papyrus, he declared, was under-trained, was in bad condition and would carry a greater weight than Zev.

PAINS IN BACK?

Listen to What Mr. McCay Says About It.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"For several years I had been subject to severe pains in my back, which often became so intense that I was compelled to cease work for days at a time. I could hardly walk. I feared I was about to lose my health or experience a general breakdown. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets on Saturday night and in less than twenty-four hours all trace of pain had completely gone, and although ten weeks have now elapsed I have never felt the slightest return of the pain. I will be pleased to recommend Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets to any one whose condition may be similar."—Henry McCay, 100 Madison St., (Grandpoint). COURT BLANCHE DE CASTILLE F. F. A.

The regular meeting of Court Blanche de Castille, F.F.A., was held at C.M.A.C. hall last evening with President Ida Porlin in the chair. Initiation of a new member was held, the usual impressive ceremonies attending. Six applications for membership in the order were also received. Minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted. Reports of the various committees were submitted and also accepted. The question before the members last evening was the changing of the court's quarters, and it was unanimously voted that the court retain its present quarters. Under the present regulations, the court has access to the C.M.A.C. hall one evening during the course of the year, for entertainment purposes, and it was voted to hold a whist and entertainment party Thanksgiving week. The grand has received an invitation to give an exhibition in Nashua on Oct. 28, and the captain, Miss Ida Grenier, will hold regular drills, beginning this evening at 6:30 o'clock and continuing during the weeks previous to their scheduled appearance.

REAL ESTATE SALES

Thomas H. Elliott, real estate and general insurance, 64 Central street, corner Prescott, reports the following sales negotiated during the past week: On behalf of Mrs. Nathan B. Hartford, Jr., of Arlington Mass., conveyance has been effected of the modern apartment property at 31-33 Hill Avenue. The house has two apartments of eight rooms and bath each. Land containing 5504 square feet is conveyed in the transfer. The property is a portion of the estate of the late P. K. Brown. The grantees are Patrick M. Flanagan and Julia Flanagan, who purchase for both occupancy and investment.

In the Centralville section conveyance has been made of the residential property at 15 Dana street. The house is of one and one-half story type, and occupies land to the amount of 3559 square feet. The sale is negotiated on behalf of Peter Lantry, the grantee being Bridget E. McNiff. Final papers have been sent to record in the transfer of a building site situated on the easterly side of Davine Avenue near its junction with Gosham street. The lot has an area of 5594 square feet, with a street frontage of 50 feet. The sale is effected on behalf of Mary E. Winslow of Chelsea, the grantees being Frank G. Palmgren and Caroline G. Palmgren.

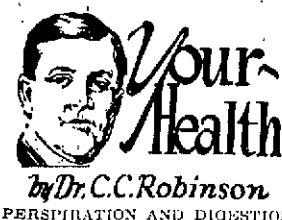

In North Billerica transfer of a large tract of land has been effected. The property in question is located on the westerly side of High street and totals in excess of fifty acres. The parcel has a most extended frontage on both High and Rogers streets, and is for the greater part free level land. This sale is effected on behalf of Bernard Kearney. The grantee is Walter S. Thompson of New York City, who plans an extensive development of the property.

In the Highlands section sale has been effected through this office of an exceptionally high-grade two-apartment property situated at 153-155 Sagies street, adjoining the corner of Westford street. The property has two apartments of six rooms and bath each, the heat being by steam. It is practically new, and modern to the last detail throughout. Conveyance is made on behalf of Mrs. Dennis J. Cooney, the purchasers being Alvin F. Reynolds and William M. Reynolds.

PERSPIRATION AND DIGESTION

Perspiration depends on the circulation of the blood. The body not only requires nourishment from the blood for cell growth and repair, but also demands the separation and elimination of waste which cannot be converted into blood and which must be thrown off daily in the normal healthy person. Perspiration is a continuous process, inevitable during periods of inactivity or sedentary life. Better condition of body, exercise or work, even in middle age or infirm adults, which will promote a healthy circulation and convey an abundance of blood to the glands of the skin, is desired for increased perspiration. Physicians of the present day are well aware that the skin does not play the important part it was formerly supposed to perform in elimination, but it is a great cleansing agent and a sort of health barometer which clearly indicates a good circulation by normal perspiration. In addition to this activity, it is better than any medicine in the preservation of health and prevention of disease. It may be said to remove the causes of many disorders such as body poisons, fat excess and clogged glands and is a means of giving renewed strength and body tone. Perspiration assists the digestion by the promotion of a healthy appetite. The exhalation and renewal of both body and mind are also aids to proper digestion. Good appetite insures a good supply of blood for the body. Good food makes good blood. The life stream of good blood coursing through your body gives good skin actively by exercise and perspiration and so the wheels of body action are kept in healthy motion. DEATHS

STATTON—Frank H. Stratton formerly of this city died yesterday at a private hospital at Concord where he had been ill for several weeks. Mr. Stratton was born in this city, although he had of late years resided in Newton Highlands and had maintained an office in Boston. He was a general agent of the Equitable Life Assurance Society and had been most successful in his work. He began his career in life insurance work in Lowell and soon outgrew the Lowell territory and was recognized by the company as one of its ablest and most successful representatives. He is survived by his wife, two children and his father, John S. Stratton of this city.

HETU—Mrs. Excelline (Roy) Hetu, wife of Horace Hetu, a resident of this city for the past 51 years and well known in French-American circles, died Thursday night at her home, 12 Dane street, aged 59 years, after a long illness. She leaves besides her husband, one son, Isidore Hetu of this city; three sisters Mrs. Simon Blouin of Biddeford, N. Y., and the Misses Natalie and Rose Hetu of this city; and two brothers Laurent Roy of Gardner and Joseph Roy of this city. She was an attendant of St. Jean Baptiste church and was a member of St. Anne's society. She was also a benefactress of the French-American orphanage.

COHEN—Wolfe Cohen, a resident of 71 Howard street, died yesterday morning at the Massachusetts General hospital, Boston, aged 65 years. The body was brought to this city and removed to the home by Undertakers Amedee Archambault & Sons. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from his home, 71 Howard street. Burial was in the family lot in the Israel Brothers' home cemetery in Pelham, N. H. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Amedee Archambault & Sons.

FLYNN—Mrs. Annie J. Ryan Flynn, a life long resident of the Sacred Heart parish, died this morning after a lingering illness which she bore with true Christian fortitude. She was well and favorably known in the parish, being a devoted attendant of the church and an interested worker in all its activities. She was the widow of John J. Flynn. She leaves four sisters, Misses Mary E., Hannah E., Sarah A. Ryan and Mrs. Andrew J. Murray, also two nephews, John J. and Joseph F. Ryan and one niece, Miss Mary V. Ryan.

MULLEN—Mrs. Mary E. Mullen, widow of John Mullen, and a former resident of this city, being an attendant of St. Michael's church, died at her home, 241 South Main street, Brattleboro, Vt. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Frances Dyke, Mrs. Emma Doyle and Miss Gertrude Mullen, and two sons, William and John Mullen. The body will be removed to the funeral home of Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons, 14 Highland street.

KELLEY—Mrs. Bridget T. (Murphy) Kelley, wife of Michael H. Kelley, an esteemed member of St. Patrick's church, of which she has been an attendant for many years, died this morning at her home, 112 Walker street, after an illness of three weeks. She is survived by her husband, three sons, Edward D., George H. and Frederick C. Kelley, all of Lowell; three brothers, Stephen, John and Anthony Murphy, all of Ireland, and one sister, Marie Kelley of Ireland.

BISCORNET—Paul Biscornet, a resident of this city for the past 44 years, died yesterday at his home, 6 Harvard street, aged 55 years. He was a member of Lowell society, 230 E. E. and a member of the St. Joseph's C.O.R. He leaves his wife, Anna (Paradis) Biscornet and six daughters, Mrs. Arthur Broderick, Mrs. James F. O'Rourke, Mrs. Olla Morrison, Mrs. Frank Colby and the Misses Pauline and Mildred.

LENNOX—James Lennox died yesterday at the home of his wife, Mrs. Humphrey street, aged 75 years, 3 months and 11 days. He leaves his wife, Alice Lennox; two daughters, Mrs. Oliver Cork and Mrs. Edward H. Craig; one son, Frank L. Lennox; and one daughter, Mrs. C. H. Donovan, Mrs. Charlotte Jacques and Mrs. John Thurn, of Lowell, and Mrs. George Hodge of Lawrence and 14 grandchildren.

KINNANE—John Kinnane, for the past 20 years a resident of this city, died yesterday at the Lowell hospital after a brief illness. He is survived by one brother, George Kinnane, and several nieces and nephews. The body was removed to the funeral home of Undertakers M. H. McDonough Sons, 14 Highland street.

MOUNTAIN—Mrs. Jane Mountain, a well known resident of Forge Village for past 14 years, died Thursday at her home in that village, aged 89 years, 3 months and 28 days. She leaves seven sons, James of California, Charles J. of Lowell, Walter E. of Lowell, Ernest of Forge Village, William of Ottawa, Ont., George of California and Frederick Mountain of Lowell.

WARD—Mrs. Charlotte P. Ward, a resident of this city for many years, passed away at her home, 258 East Merrimack street, aged 72 years. She leaves no near relatives. Her body was removed to Saunders funeral home, 217 Appleton street.

FULLER—Mrs. Elizabeth F. Fuller, widow of Joseph P. Fuller, and a resident of Lowell for many years, died yesterday at her home, 258 East Merrimack street, aged 72 years. She leaves several nieces and nephews.

RYAN—There will be an anniversary high mass Monday morning at 8 o'clock at Sacred Heart church for the repose of the soul of Mrs. Ella Ryan.

FINN—There will be an anniversary high mass at St. Patrick's church, Monday morning at 8 o'clock, for the repose of the soul of Martin Finn.

Saturday Shoppers Swarm Downtown Stores

diversified and seemed confined to no definite group. In the men's stores and the women's wear stores as in other various shops the post-up buying power of industrial Lowell went on a spree.

The mills having paid Thursday and the intervening holiday having afforded to many a rare opportunity to study the advertisements of Saturday bargain attractions, and there were many of them, the shopping carnival of 1923, advertised as such but so named from the interest shown at all sides, was under way with the commencement of Saturday business.

It was a buying crowd, not a "looking" crowd that descended upon the downtown stores today. In the various shops and markets the receipts at noon indicated that an unheralded buying boom was under way. And the merchants of Lowell were not caught unawares. They handled the trade well. Knowing that sooner or later the bubble of reserved buying would burst and Lowell would come down to its purchasing power the stores were prepared for "the day."

"The advertisements in The Sun on Friday are entitled to as much and perhaps more credit than any one factor in the success of today's business," said one store head this morning who found difficulty in sparing even a few moments to show the jubilation at the day's business. "The wisdom of the holiday advertising when a business day follows, is certainly clearly shown. Many of the people—yes, most of the people who come in—are keen on some particular offering which we advertised yesterday. We have to give credit to The Sun for helping in putting over what looks like a whole of a day for us."

The various restaurants at noon reflected the intention of shoppers to "make a day of it." Few went home at noon and the restaurants handled the biggest noon-day crowds of any Saturday this year. Even the trolley car operators remarked that almost everyone showed up for the afternoon ride, were loaded down with bundles when boarding the car.

The police details had their work cut out for them in handling the traffic which assumed gigantic proportions long before noon and kept gaining in volume. They handled their job admirably, however, and no serious accidents, accidents, or injuries were reported.

The baseball game kept the men folk down-town throughout the afternoon. Men's stores report the best Saturday sale on soft hats this far this season while the sales of top-coats and advance sales of heavy overcoats were well beyond expectations.

Safe Fat Reduction

Reduce, reduce, reduce, is the slogan of all fat people. The cry of fashion and society. And the over-fat wring their hands in mortification and helplessness; revolting at nauseating druggists, afraid of dieting, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet, and disgusted with all-sure greases and salves, until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription and learn that it is the only safe, sure, reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, secretly, and quickly reaching their ideal of figure, with no loss of health, appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famous harmless formula that the famous Dr. Price's Peppermint Cure has been found to be the most effective of all safe, fat reducers by giving to your druggist one dollar for a case, and sending him the Marmola company, 4612 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich., with a request that they mail to you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets. FUNERALS

BRENNAN—With relatives and friends from Providence, R. I., Washington, D. C., New York City and Cambridge, among the large congregation, funeral services for Mrs. Annie Brennan were held at the Sacred Heart church at 10 o'clock this morning. The church was well filled. Deceased had been well and favorably known here as a most successful business woman for a number of years before removing to Cambridge. She was particularly well remembered by many of the old settlers for her pleasing personality, her honorable dealings and her charitable acts. She had engaged her to all with whom she came in contact. The funeral cortege left the home of Mrs. Robert H. Harkins, daughter of deceased, in Ellsworth street at 9:30, and proceeded to the church, where a funeral high mass was sung at 10 o'clock by Rev. Jeremiah Kenelly, O.M.I. Solos of the mass were sustained by Miss Harriet Moran, Master of the choir, under the direction of Mr. Kenelly, who presided at the organ, sang the Gregorian chant. There was a procession of beautiful floral offerings, a most edifying and high, as well as many spiritual offerings. The casket was borne by the following bearers: Messrs. John Hogan, William Draper, William Dwyer, Thomas Harkins, George Harkins, James Harkins, and the Rev. Father Kenelly. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read at the grave by Rev. Fr. Kenelly, O.M.I. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers O'Donnell & Fay.

DONOVAN—The funeral of Edward J. Donovan took place this morning at 9:30 o'clock from his home, 67 Westford street and was largely attended. The cortege proceeded to St. Patrick's church where, at 10 o'clock, a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. John J. McGarry, O.M.I., assisted by Rev. Joseph A. Curtis, D.D., as sub-deacon. The choir, under the direction of Mr. Michael J. Johnson, rendered the Gregorian chant, the solos in the mass being sustained by the choir. The floral offerings were borne by the following bearers: Messrs. John Hogan, William Draper, William Dwyer, Thomas Harkins, George Harkins, James Harkins, and the Rev. Father Kenelly. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read at the grave by Rev. Fr. Kenelly, O.M.I. AT KING TUT'S TOMB

LINCOLN, Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—King Tutankhamun's eternal sleep will again be disturbed next Wednesday when an army of Egyptian laborers under the direction of Howard Carter and the American archaeological experts will remove the temporary steel door from the opening of the tomb.

AMARILLO, Texas.—"My back was my greatest trouble. It would ache so that it would almost kill me and I would have cramps. I suffered in this way about three years; then a lady friend suggested that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had better health since, keep house and am able to do my work. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends as it has certainly given me great relief."—Mrs. C. B. Robinson, 608 N. Lincoln St., Amarillo, Tex.

The Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for women. It relieves the troubles which cause such symptoms as backache, painful times, irregularity, tired and worn-out feelings and nervousness. This is shown again and again by such letters as Mrs. Robinson writes as well as by one woman telling another. These women know what it did for them. It is surely worth your trial.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become so ill that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

BLOOD THIN

VITALITY LOW

Characteristic Symptoms of Anemia Shown in Case of This Utica Resident

When the blood is thin the symptoms are often much the same, pallor, feeling of fatigue, shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart and a disordered digestion. The case of Mrs. H. S. Jones of No. 1115 Erie st., Utica, N. Y., is typical and her story will interest everyone who wants richer, purer blood.

"I was in an anemic condition," says Mrs. Jones, "and my vitality was low. My blood was very thin and my strength was gone. I had terrible dizzy spells before my eyes. At times everything would turn black. My heart used to flutter a lot and this seemed to make me short of breath. My complexion was pale and sallow. I suffered easily and my appetite was very poor. I was nervous and the least little occurrence would make me all excited."

"My mother had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and she urged me to give them a trial. They helped me right away. While I was taking the first box the dizziness and the sinking spells left me. As my blood became richer I recovered strength, my appetite returned and my food digested better. My heart does not bother me at all now and I feel fine. I can endorse Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a very reliable blood builder and my whole family is enthusiastic about them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 60 cents per box, postpaid. Write today for a copy of the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood."—Adv.

WALTER CLARKSON WINS VESPER CLUB CHAMPIONSHIP BY DOWNING MARSHALL FORREST, 6 AND 4

Seven years ago Walter Clarkson won the golf championship of the Vesper Country club played over the old nine-hole course. Yesterday over the new 18-hole layout of which the club now boasts he reached the pinnacle again when he defeated Marshall Forrest, schoolboy crack, 6 up and 4 to play over the 36-hole route. The victory was more brilliant yesterday than it was in 1916 and after the morning round of 18 holes had sent the pair to lunch on even terms Walter stepped out in the matinee engagement and quickly piled up a lead that the fast-stepping youngster could not whittle away.

Racing to the turn in 37 strokes in the afternoon Clarkson set sail for home with a four hole advantage tucked away in his bag. Pars fluttered from his words and from the 10th and 11th and he was six up. Forrest prolonged the inevitable for a moment when he captured the 12th but when the 13th was hit Clarkson had him down to a hole. A win for the old Harvard pitcher going across the creek gave him the crown, 6 and 4.

The play during the morning round which Clarkson never was down and never more than 2 up at any stage fulfilled all prognostications of a tight match. Walter stood on No. 17 tee with a hole in advantage, but when Forrest laid an iron a few feet from the cup and holed for a par 3 and when he followed this effort with four perfect shots on the long 18th, he had squared the match in a sensational finish.

While Clarkson's sound game became more and more brilliant and deadly in the afternoon Forrest fell away from his championship stride and after a half on the first hole dropped the next three in rapid succession. That was the beginning of the rout as Walter held and added to this advantage from that point on.

On seven of the outward nine holes in the afternoon Clarkson clicked off pars, on the third he was one over and on the fifth he was one under. Against this exhibition Forrest's game melted away and the four strokes he trailed him going out represented the hole-advantage the new champion piled up.

A fair sized gallery watched the match in the morning and nearly 100 men and women trudged over the fairways in the afternoon to watch the struggle.

Mixed Foursumers Oct. 17

Vesper announces an open mixed foursome event for next Wednesday, Oct. 17. As this style of game is ever becoming more popular a large entry list is expected. Tom Southam will be master of ceremonies.

Jock Hutchison New Champion

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 13.—Jock Hutchison, the veteran golfer is the new western open champion. Playing in his best form, the chattering Scott broke away from a select field over the Colonial Country club course yesterday and, with a 281 finished six strokes ahead of Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel, Joe Kirkwood and Bobby Cruikshank, who tied for runner-up honors.

Mrs. Hurd and Mrs. Fordyce in Finals

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia, former women's national champion, and Miss Louise Fordyce, the brilliant young star from Youngstown, Ohio, will fight it out in the final round of the women's invitation golf tournament at the Huntingdon Valley country club for the famous Berthelmy cup today.

NICK ALTROCK TELLS HUG HEILMANN AND HORNSBY HOW TO BEAT GIANTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—By the Associated Press.—Nick Altrock, baseball's premier clown, had a bright idea after yesterday's game and imparted it to Miller Huggins, the Yankee manager. "Listen now, Al, I've got a trick for you. We just gotta win this series for the American League, and we can't do it with this bird Stengel butting around like he is. You know he can't hit left handed pitchers. Now here's the idea: Let Herb Donnelly pitch every day." Arthur Nehf's victory over the Yankees yesterday was his third out of six starts in the series, 1921, 1922 and this year. In his first two attempts in 1921 he was defeated by Hoyt, but he defeated Hoyt in their third duel of the series in the eighth and deciding game. In 1922 he started the first game and was relieved by Ross Ryan, who received credit for a victory when the Giants rallied and won the deciding game of the series against the Bush.

"Crazy Stengel is modest about his home run," he said yesterday after the game. "A guy will meet one on the nose now and then."

ONLY FEW CITIES TO HEAR JERITZA

Maria Jeritza, the Viennese dramatic soprano, whose triumphal success at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York last season was one of the greatest operatic sensations of years, will appear in the Memorial Auditorium, Wednesday, Oct. 24, in a program of a nature that will best bring out her ability and voice. Miss Jeritza's appearance in Lowell will be a treat not only for music lovers but also for those who love beauty and personal charm. Seats are now on sale at Chaffin's, where mail orders will be filled.

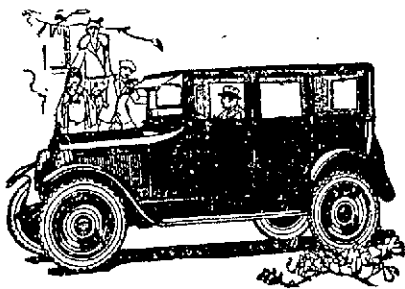

City of Lowell NOTICE OF HEARING

Hidden Ball Play Good Ground Gainer, Dangerous Threat

BY ROBERT C. ZUPPKE

Football Coach, University of Illinois. Author of "Football Technique and Tactics"

This is a particularly effective weak side play. The fullback takes a direct pass from center, turns the upper part of the body and takes the ball to the quarter. This momentary delay permits the inside half to cross for interference.

GOLFERS SHORTEN SWING. SCORES LOWERED

BY JOE WILLIAMS

N.E.A. Service Writer

Old man par has about as much standing these days on a golf course as a rural worm in a wicked, metropolitan aquarium.

The season now drawing to a festive close has been replete with record-breaking golf. More startling episodes have been written into the year's records than ever before in the history of the sport. Breaking 70 has been a simple trick for most of the top-notchers.

Each, a matter of ten years or so, the player who shot in the low 80's was looked on as somewhat of a golfing genius. A player could have a spring killing of sixes and sevens on his card and yet finish up among the winners.

Why is the golf that is played today so markedly superior to golf of the recent past? Are the players all much better? Have the lively balls with their greater carrying power and trick clubs with slotted faces made scoring easier? Unquestionably the players are a class, are better. More are playing the game and the competition is keener. Where the stars of Travis' days had but two or three opponents capable of giving them an extended battle the field today is cluttered with championship class.

The long carrying ball and trick clubs have doubtless helped to keep scores low. On the other hand, the courses of today are harder, more testing, and in the main, longer than the old courses. No course was ever more severely trapped than Inwood, where the open was played this year. Yet Jones, the winner, Kirkwood, Hutchison, Smith and Hagen all managed to beat the Inwood par at intervals.

And Flossmoor was the longest course over which an American championship had ever been decided. The sweeping reaches of the Illinois beauty spot did not keep Marston, the winner, Jones, Von Elm, Sweetser and Hagen from racing par at thrilling moments.

Possibly the chief reason why par has become less elusive is that the game is being played differently. More sensibly in periods a better way to put it. The sluggers are passing. A greater value is being placed on direction and position. What doth it profit a man to drive a mile and wind up out of bounds? Verdon, greatest of all golfers, was an accurate driver. But he always had direction.

Practically all the stars have discarded the full swing of the olden days in favor of the compact, three-quarter swing. The reduced swing is easier to control, and thus makes for better direction.

Was interesting to watch Jesse Guilford, noted stage runner, play at Flossmoor. Guilford had quit killing the ball and was using a shorter swing. Frequently he was outdriven, but rarely was he in trouble and though beaten he scored well throughout the tournament. Guilford is no longer known as the

the right guard and tackle but they lay themselves open to be taken out because the play appears to start to the other side.

The fake by the fullback must be a fast one, then he plunges in hard and low.

This play was used as consistent ground gainer by Jack Crangle, Illinois fullback, in 1919, 1920 and 1921. Although it was well known to be in the Illinois repertoire, still it often gained ground.

The next play will be No. 5—A criss-cross, attacking the weak side.

game's longest driver, and he assures you he is glad he has lost the distinction.

We asked him why he quit hammering the ball off the tee.

"Because it's easier to play a second shot off the fairway than out of the rough," he answered.

MANY IMPORTANT FOOTBALL GAMES TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Now that the season is well started, muscles hardened and formations working smoothly, the 50 odd college football teams which go into action today are expected to show more definitely of what material they are made. The stiffest battle in the east probably will be between Army and Notre Dame in Brooklyn.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton, who went into play later than most of the colleges, will meet with no serious work, and are expected to try out some of the formations which they have been going over in practice this season.

Harvard will meet Middlebury, which last week tied Union. Yale will come up against the University of Georgia, and Princeton will meet Georgetown. Of these three the stiffest battle is expected to be between Yale and University of Georgia. The Georgians scored a 20 to 6 victory last week over Oklahoma. Among the other good games

In recent years dancing has been degenerating into a thing of more sensual appeal. Many a reproach has been laid at our own door on this account. But America with its usual vitality has been gradually emerging from the chaos of jazz and evolving an art of dancing essentially American in its form, though universal in its appeal.

A pioneer in this field is unquestionably Ruth St. Denis. As a girl she became imbued with the idea that in every human emotion could be expressed in rhythmic motion, that it was possible to transmute a mood, an episode, a story, into a sequence of beautiful attitudes and gestures. And following this idea she has cast off the shackles of formality, the stiffness of classicism, the monotony of the the Russian school, and has evolved an art, which in its versatility, racial variety and freedom from convention is amazingly American, and, therefore, universal.

Most of us have felt the seductive studies of a waltz, have felt the irresistible desire to swing with the strains. But only a genius like Ruth St. Denis could originate the visualization of the great music works of master musicians. And only, thanks to her, can America claim supremacy in at least one form of art, which is being copied by the rest of the world.

Miss St. Denis and Ted Shawn will make their local appearance at the episode, a story, into a sequence of beautiful attitudes and gestures. And following this idea she has cast off the shackles of formality, the stiffness of classicism, the monotony of the

RAILROADS HELD IN SUSPENSE

Now that practically everybody has been heard on the question of solving the railroad problems, the people look for definite action. It will not help the roads to be held in suspense awaiting the government's decision as to regrouping to form the proposed regional systems.

Here in New England the transportation conditions call for a remedy more urgently perhaps than do those of any other part of the country. There is a drive for consolidation of all the New England roads as offering the best solution, but it is notable that the Associated Industries of Massachusetts favor linking them with one or more of the greater trunk lines such as the Pennsylvania, the New York Central or the Baltimore and Ohio.

Legislative action will be necessary for any radical changes and that cannot be had till after the New Year. There is a general demand made by the railroads that they shall not be harassed by further legislation. They want to be allowed to attend to their business as they see fit, within existing laws of course. It is alleged that the railroads have to serve fifty masters, comprising the 48 states, the federal government and the public. It is not strange that they want a rest from troublesome legislation.

But the government has a plan of consolidation in view that contemplates reorganization into seven or eight systems altogether. These systems would be called trusts some years ago; but now the government has reached a point at which it believes that the Sherman anti-trust law served largely to throw business. It is now conceded as the late President Roosevelt said, that there are good trusts and bad trusts. We want more of the good and fewer of the bad and the government is organizing railroad trusts under direction of the Interstate Commerce commission. A good railroad trust, or a live shipping trust would help to solve many of the transportation problems which must be solved before the industries of New England and various other parts of this country can hope for real prosperity.

THE BUSINESS SITUATION

The Boston News Bureau has no fear of the immediate future of business in general. All available data on business conditions and trend furnish two conclusions. That in the aggregate the volume of trade moving throughout the United States is substantially above normal, but the margin of profit is distinctly unsatisfactory, in many respects. It is the conflict of these facts, probably, according to the News Bureau, plus the impression sweeping into the minds of "uninformed economists," that depression must follow the boom of last spring that accounts for the uncertain movements of the security markets and the reported apprehension in some textile mill circles not far from Lowell.

It is easy to say that the "hard times" of the nineties will return at the proper time, yet the volume of trade at the present time is an outstanding factor. Consumer buying is enormous, as retail sales, mail order business and automobile distribution all attest. In certain lines, particularly textiles, oil, tires and steel, there has been a reaction, but not a radical or alarming one.

The volume of consumption of American-made goods is not only large as compared with last year, but it is in many cases well above the peak of boom years of the recent past in both units and dollars and cents. There is no widespread unemployment or any sign of real depression. Neither have we heard of any so-called buyers' strikes recently—and most people know what that generally means.

LLOYD GEORGE

There is no doubt whatever that while Lloyd George remains on this continent he will almost surely occupy the leading headlines in the American newspapers. In his Montreal address he stated that the proposed made nearly a year ago by Sec. Hughes for the appointment of a commission of experts to determine Germany's capacity to pay reparations, offered absolutely the best hope of settling that difficult problem. He realizes, of course, that France is opposed to this plan and that it has been discussed at length pro and con and rejected. It appears, however, that Lloyd George and other British statesmen, and possibly some also at Washington, have still a lingering hope that this plan will be finally adopted as the easiest method of settling at least the amount of reparations which Germany can pay.

In opposition to the plan, France has held that Germany is not honest in her claims of inability to pay, that she is simply stalling and that there can be no settlement until she offers bona fide guarantees of paying to the extent of her ability. France has won a moral victory in carrying her point on this issue, and it is useless to start an agitation now that will only start Germany to pretend her resistance.

Just so long as Germany feels that she can rely upon British sympathy in holding out promises of aid, she will continue to resist to the utmost of her power the demands made by France for the payment of reparations.

Lloyd George now says that England made a great blunder in not adopting the commission plan offered by Secretary Hughes for determining Germany's ability to pay. This was put up to him as a last resort, but Lloyd George says that the matter was up to him and he refused to entertain the suggestion. He is now attempting to force the issue upon France, even after they have thrown up their hands and surrendered to the demands of France. It should be done and it can't be done. The decision of France is final.

TO SETTLE WORKERS' PROBLEMS

Representatives of the various sections of the American laboring community met in Manchester last Tuesday afternoon to select a committee for a general election under a plan for employee representation adopted by this department recently. The management has asked the union to elect to represent the mechanics division at the so-called workers' congress to arrange the better conditions and other necessary matters.

When the new American workers' representation plan is functioning there is a special committee to handle the matter of future elections as well as grievances and questions of mutual importance to both the company and its employees.

The first step toward the new plan was taken Tuesday last, when representatives and committees from the band of workers were elected. Seventy-two employees attended the conference and perfected arrangements for the election. The names of the entire working force were placed on

CONGRATULATIONS, A. F. OF L.

Congratulations to the American Federation of Labor in convention at Portland, Ore., for throwing out of its meeting William F. Dunne of Butte, Mont., on the ground that he is a communist and therefore, a traitor to organized labor. Dunne had been a disturber for a considerable time and was evidently among those who enter the labor organizations for the purpose of boring from within in order to overthrow the present system of American government. Dunne had been an outspoken advocate of the "one big union" and that principle was emphatically condemned when action was taken on Dunne's expulsion.

The convention also denounced the attempt of the Ku Klux Klan to usurp the function of government and overthrow constituted authority. This action followed logically that by which Dunne and his "one big union" policy were rejected. The salvation of organized labor in this country depends upon its vigilance in following President Gompers' policy in repudiating radicalism in every form.

THE MENU IN FRENCH

Congressman Britten after returning from Europe as a passenger on the U. S. Levathan entered vigorous protest against having the menu in the dining-room printed entirely in the French language. As most of the cabin passengers were English, only a few of them could translate the French and hence an interpreter was necessary during meal hours. An additional complication, Mr. Britten said, arose from the fact that even the waiters were unable to translate the menu and some of them barely understood what was wanted when the orders were given in French as printed on the menu. In the steerage, the situation was reversed, as very few of the passengers there could speak English, and strange to say, the menu was printed in the English language. It would seem that somebody remarkably lacking a sense of the fitness of things, was allowed to plan the menu; but judging from the vigorous protest made by Congressman Britten, the necessary change will probably be made without delay. The passengers on train or steamer want to know what they are eating.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS

An eastern professor urges mental tests to keep incapable candidates out of college. He figures this would prevent wasting the time of teachers as well as dumbbells.

Unfortunately, it can't be done. The really fit student can't be distinguished from the unfit until about 25 years after graduation. We know a star graduate who is driving a team in a logging camp.

In various states the campaign continues to prevent teaching the scientific doctrine of evolution in the schools, on the ground that evolution is contrary to the Bible.

On the other hand, in 10 states the Bible is not permitted to be read in the public schools, says William R. Hood, specialist in school legislation. Six states require a daily Bible reading in the schools. Six other states permit it. In 18 states and the District of Columbia, the law is silent on the subject. In other states, the law is also silent, but courts have ruled in favor of the Bible.

PROTECT THE FARMERS

You read a lot about the American farmer's struggle for his fair share of prosperity. Farmers are having pretty much the same difficulty in other countries.

The outcome is hard to predict. But the reaction, when it comes, will be terrific. Half of the world's workers are engaged in agriculture, our government funds on checking up. In America, only 20 per cent; yet farming is the basic industry, and as such must be protected against unjust legislation and profiteers.

OFFICIAL BURDENS

Immediately after the Civil war there was one political office holder to every 1000 persons in the United States. Today there is an office holder for every 12 people, observes William Clerk, Akron business man.

If this develops to its logical conclusion, eventually everybody will be on the government payroll. But the pendulum will eventually swing in the opposite direction. Taxpayers can stand just so much, no more.

BEST THEATRE SEATS

What's the best seat in a theatre? Showmen, interviewed, agree that the fourth row on the aisle is the best seat in the house. In this seat the actors' voices are most natural and the distance is ideal for the illusions of stagecraft.

Despite all this, ticket sellers say the public prefers the front row. A fortune awaits the man who can invent a theatre with all seats first row on the aisle.

LARGE FAMILIES

Considering the high cost of living, medals should be struck off and pinned on those people.

In Bay City, Mich., a rag-picker named Charles E. Litchus is the father of 33 children.

TRACKLESS

A trackless street car line proves successful in Birmingham, England. It is, of course, a system of large-size motor busses. The cost of operation is lower than that of street cars.

In considering this as a substitute, Americans should keep in mind the matter of wear-and-tear on pavements and the deadly monoxide gas diffused in great volumes by the big motor bus engines.

SEEN AND HEARD

Charlie Chaplin visited in New York. Bet the waiters ducked after handing him his tip.

Utah doctor says cow milk not so good as goat milk. Trying to make goats out of his cows.

Hail, rain and wind storm hit Woodward, Okla. At first they thought it was the governor.

Hunter got shot in Tennessee. It wasn't an unloaded gun case. It was a loaded dice case.

A man in Rockland discovered an effective way to get rid of hornet's nests in the peak of his house. He got some cotton, wound it around a pole, soaked it with oil and applied a match. Then he poked the flaming mass against the nests. The firemen were prompt in responding to the call and saved the house.

Twenty grand jurors, nearly 40 common jurors, 20 court officials and police officers, two barristers and a full bench of justices—about 100 persons in all—attended the quarter sessions at Rury St. Edmund's, Eng., when the only case was that of a man accused of stealing three pieces of wood valued at three shillings.

A Thought

We are all excited by the love of praise, and the noblest are most influenced by glory.—Cicero.

No Mercy Shown

"What do you do if a man persists in asking for a dance—and you hate him?" asked Maude. "Tell him your card's full," advised Dora. "Well, suppose it isn't?" "Say it is—and let him see it isn't!"

One Was Enough

"What you do?" demanded the foreman of a construction gang sternly of an alleged worker. "Nothing," was the reply. "Well, there's no use both of us doing the same thing. You get busy and do something!"

Ingenuous Reply

"I've called for my suit," said the customer to his tailor. "I'm sorry, sir, but it is not finished," replied the tailor. "Why, you said you would have it done if you worked all night?" "Yes, but I didn't work all night," he explained ingenuously.

Such a Slam!

"Father," confessed the callow youth, "I have married her. We are two souls with but a single thought." "Well, you've gained something. A single thought isn't so many, but it is one more than I ever knew you to have before."

A Telephone City

If all the employees of the Bell Telephone System should decide to live in one city, it would take one the approximate size of Toledo, Ohio, to house them. The United States census of January 1, 1920, credits Toledo with a population of 243,164 and there were 243,063 employees in the Bell system at the beginning of this year, exclusive of the Western Electric company which, on April 1, 1923, reported 54,932 employees.

Impatient of Delay

The old man regarded his last unmarried daughter critically. "Let me see, Alice," he reflected. "Young Syntha has been calling on you regularly for six or eight months, hasn't he?" "Yes, father," stammered Alice. "Well," continued her parent, "if he asks you to marry him when he comes tonight, let him to see me understand." "Yes," giggled Alice. "But suppose he doesn't ask me to marry him?" "If he," reflected papa, "in that case just tell him I want to see him."

Wanted Towns Labeled

A small-town constable in an eastern state hailed a motorist. "Haven't you been reading the signs along the road?" "Yes," "What do they say?" "Twenty-five miles an hour and—15 miles through towns." "You should have slowed down," declared the official. "You are now inside our town limits. You admit the signs are plain enough?" "Plain enough," responded the motorist. "But why don't you label your towns?"

Horizon

So fragile is the line of it, so thread-like, Against the rising splendor of the day; And yet it beckons like slim, luring fingers, And whispers of the land of far away!

Oh, all the gold that lived in Spanish gallantries, And all the pearls that lie beneath the strand, Are just beyond the line of it, as slender As a pale ribbon in a woman's hand.

We crowd ambition into packs, we crowd us, In rainbow cloaks of valor and of pride, And answer to the call of it, each striving To reach that haven on the other side.

And though the path be strewn with stones to play us, And though the way be fraught with fear and pain, And though, sometimes, we leave our heart behind us, And though, awhile, we pause for sudden gain—

We never shut our souls against the calling, We never turn our pleading eyes away, From that faint thread of silver, ever gleaming, Against the promise of the new-born day!

Oh, all the zema that sleep in high flung mountains, And all the wealth with which the earth is lined, Are safe beyond that thread—for none have crossed it— With all the dreams the earth-bound never find!

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Miss Mary E. Tobin, newly installed president of the Lowell Teachers' organization, has proven herself a friend in need to many of the 2300 students at the high school. As student adviser, Miss Tobin meets many pupils who are in danger of flunking subjects and who desire to change to a subject that is easier. Rather than have them do the latter she spends many hours of her time in coaching them along and assisting them in every possible way to pass in all subjects. There is hardly an hour of the school day that she is not helping pupils to overcome difficulties and they in turn have come to regard her as one to whom they can bring their troubles with full confidence of getting the necessary assistance.

I wonder how many people know that there is a memorial monument erected to Lucy Larcum in the city of Lowell. I must confess that I was in total ignorance of it until a few days ago a stranger in town walked into the office and asked for information concerning its location. Rather than admit complete ignorance I went to the trouble of looking the matter up and found that such a one is indeed in place at the Lowell cemetery on Washington avenue near the Fort Hill side of the burial ground. What a large number of testimonials to our formerly great citizens the present generation must know nothing about.

Headmaster Henry H. Harris of the high school certainly has succeeded in working up a school spirit among the pupils and teachers that does more for the morale of the school than could anything else. If the pupils were not behind their headmaster in every way, they surely would not have worked as hard to collect funds for Alumni field and gym aid as they were not behind to the brim with enthusiasm they never would have got over $3000 in less than two weeks. Another proof of the school spirit was the large attendance at the football game last Saturday—the best in many years at a mid-season game.

Miss Maria Roberts, a former teacher in the Bartlett school, who resigned last June, has in her home a memento presented her by the teachers and pupils of the school that she prizes above anything else given her during her 35 years as a teacher. It is a bouquet of artificial flowers and in the center of each is matted a photograph of a teacher who served with her in the school last year. Incidentally a card was attached to the bouquet on which was glued a $20 gold piece. The bouquet is placed in a central position in Miss Roberts' living room as a vivid reminder of her associate teachers of 1923.

Curiously enough, the Auditorium was not applied for by any of the organizations holding open meetings on Columbus day. Whether the cause was a belief that it is not obtainable on a holiday without speaking for it far in advance, or whether the people of the city are not yet accustomed to the fact that either hall may be had by the first applicant for an assemblage at which there is no charge, is the open question.

Nine out of ten of the groups of people I pass in the street are discussing the weather, and the other tenth are mostly talking business. It is certainly fortunate for the weather fans that they live in New England, for as our rugged brethren of the south are reported to say "Weather is what we don't have nothing else but."

Social Systems

The big fish eat the small fish,
The small fish, in their turn,
Eat smaller fish; of all fish
This is the fact we learn.
And certain cynics try to Assume this cruel plan
Is one that must apply to The social life of man.

The jungle beasts are preying
On other beasts, we know;
And these in turn are laying
The weaker creatures low.
"It's Nature's law of being,"
Philosophers proclaim,
While ruthlessly decreeing
That man must do the same.

But why should man be guided By Nature's savage creed?
Or all his ways decided
By strength and craft and greed?
For though his life's a bungle,
Far worse than we could wish,
He need not ape the jungle,
Nor emulate the fish.

Store Clerks' Demand

The old Sun gives an account of a large meeting of store clerks held at the Knights of Columbus hall to organize a movement for Friday evening closing. In those days the stores kept open three nights a week at least, that is on Mondays, Fridays and Saturdays. The clerks found that the hours were unnecessarily long and a petition was presented to the store-keepers appealing for a change so that they might not be required to work on Friday evenings. Mr. J. S. Hastings presided. The following officers were chosen: James S. Hastings, president; Tom Dalton, vice-president; Louis F. Sykes, treasurer; Charles H. Steery, secretary. It was reported that many of the stores had agreed to close on Friday evenings as requested.

Dr. Wm. M. Jones, City Physician

The board of aldermen confirmed the appointment by Mayor Bennett of Dr. William M. Jones as city physician to succeed Dr. T. B. Smith, who resigned to accept the office of bacteriologist in the health department. Dr. Jones, recently moved his office from Merrimack street to his home on Branch street. The late Dr. Smith was deeply interested in the science and practice of bacteriology and made great progress in the work during his years in which he held the office. He finally became medical examiner and, as a result of exposure in the practice of his duties, he contracted a severe cold which developed into pneumonia from which he died.

vestigation of the situation throughout the country and will, at a near future date, be so fully armed with facts, that he believes he can show congress the need of such legislation and that it will be enacted.

Nine states now have more than ten per cent of their children of ages ten to fifteen years, at work. These are: Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas. In those states illiteracy is above the average, and school attendance below the average.

Senator Johnson's Plans

Senator Magnus Johnson of Minnesota is just now holding the centre of the stage in all Washington despatches. He is in Washington looking for a home for himself, Mrs. Johnson and a few of the children, leaving the eldest boys at home to take care of the farm. Mr. Johnson says he wants a place where he can keep a cow. As cows are rare luxuries in Washington it's a safe guess he will be rather popular, if he shares cream with his neighbors. The capital city has few if any attractive suburbs where cows can graze, and the colleagues of the Minnesota farm-blinger must depend on far away herds to supply their milk wants.

President Taft kept a fine Jersey in the White House grounds, but it grazed only in a secluded corner of the great White House lot. President Wilson had sheep grazing within a stone throw of the great pillared official entrance to the historic mansion—but senators have as a rule, foregone the comfort of semi-farm life. But whether or not we all approve of Mr. Johnson's political ideas,

we must certainly approve of his proposed cow.

Would Give Coolidge a Chance

One of the first remarks made by the new Minnesota senator at his first interview with press gallery correspondents, was "Unloading hay is easier than being a senator." Commenting on President Coolidge and his possible candidacy for the presidency, Mr. Johnson said: "We ought to give him a chance to show up; he hasn't had time to turn 'round yet," all of which indicates there will be some senatorial talk with a genuine local twang. When Mr. Johnson gets under way, Mr. Johnson remarked he wasn't in very good voice, but all the same the newspaper provisions being made for separate housing, but that educational and religious opportunity will be shared with the men. Up to this time no women have been admitted to such homes. It is not known how many will avail themselves of the privilege but the estimate is roughly placed at 450.

Mrs. Coolidge Declines

Mrs. Coolidge recently declined to accept the invitation of the American Pen Woman's league to become a member. She said: "I am not a writer so do not feel properly qualified to join the organization," adding pleasant words of endorsement of the league. Somehow it is difficult to recall so modest an estimate of self, in other women of high official life. At any rate, it is a rare estimate.

PROGRAM AT MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

A strange love that comes to a matter-of-fact young man with the sudden fury of the night storm that hurls a beautiful girl into the shelter of his home, is the pivotal point of "Strangers of the Night," Fred Noble's newest drama which opens a four days engagement at the Merrimack Square tomorrow. It will continue Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and is expected to draw large houses because it is easily one of the outstanding photoplay sensations of the year.

"Strangers of the Night," in screen form, is a version of Walter Blackett's stage play which ran for a year in New York with Wallace Eddinger in the title role and was played for a year in London by Charles Hawtry. In the screen version, Matt Moore steps into the shoes of the stage star as the timid young Englishman who dreams he is a pirate and develops a piratical manner in real life. Barbara Le Marr, distinguished for her performances in "The Three Musketeers" and "The Descent of Zenda," is again cast as an adventuress, playing the charming Russian, Anna Valerka, the role that Mary Nash played on the stage. Emil Bennett, the Maid Marion of "Robin Hood," becomes the little English maid, "Poppy Fair," who, in the dream part of the story, is transformed into a cabin boy on the pirate ship. This is the role in which Florenz Foster won her stage reputation. Robert McKim, the villain of most of William S. Hart's pictures, is cast in the role of Borolsky, the Russian spy, who becomes a leader of the pirate party in the dream. Other noted screen players are cast in important parts. A rollicking, melodramatic comedy of

Scene From "Jacqueline" at The Strand

If it's a gripping tale of the "North woods," with thrills, love romance, wonderful scenic effects and commendable characterizations, then don't miss seeing James Oliver Curwood's story, "Jacqueline," at the Strand for four days, beginning Sunday. An all-star cast, headed by Lew Cody, Marguerite Courtot, Edmund Breese, Effie Shannon, Sheldon Lewis, and J. Barney Sherry, make this presentation one that patrons of pictures hereabouts will long remember. The central figure about which the author has written such an amazing, and at the same time thrilling tale, is Jacqueline, in the heart of the Canadian timber country. Two men seek her hand, one a clean-living, whole-souled woodman who loved her in girlhood, and the other is a city chap, whose past has been a bit shady, but whose experience with life gives him a temporary marked advantage in the contest for the heart and hand of the girl. What the outcome is, and what transpires during the progress of the story is best told by the film. The review it, even fully at this time, would not be quite fair to those who anticipate seeing it. All of the thrills and wonderful scenic effects generally found in a story with such a locale, are found in this recital of events in the north, while the characterizations, treated by such a superior cast, are most commendable. James Oliver Curwood never wrote a stranger or more gripping story—and he has written many. Contained in the offering are a varied assortment of "touches" as thrilling as anything the most caustic theatre-goer to his or her feet. There is a sequence that shows two men in a trail canoe running the most tremendous rapids in the north, the taking of which evolved the destruction of six similar canoes, and almost cost the lives of two of the actors. There is—but why continue here with a recital of the high lights of this creation of the film. Just see it and enjoy one of the best stories of the northland ever shown on the screen.

The Cosmopolitan production, "The Love Pilfer," which is the second feature during the first part of the week, is a delightful melodrama, featuring Anita Stewart. It is an adaptation of a story by Frank R. Adams and has been directed by E. Mass Hooper. Included in the supporting cast are Robert Fraser, William Morris, Col. Gerrard, Arthur Hoyt, Betty Francisco and others. It treats of the love affairs of Hope Warner, a wealthy, though snobbish girl, and Martin Van Hosen, a self-made construction engineer to whom, prosperity has come after the

"The Fall Fashion Revue," directed and produced by Miss Florence Fredericks, will be the best hat of the coming week's bill. In a more than usual way it will be a local production, for young men and women will be used in the three scenes which will go to make up this first class performance. Hope's loyalty to Martin is put to a test on meeting the old man. Her better self finally asserts itself and the culmination brings about a happy and satisfying ending. The piece has much humor as well as a delightful dramatic appeal. Besides the above features there will be the usual comedy and variety, as well as musical numbers and above everything else,—strut and comfort.

The production will, in reality, be a play with the wearing apparel used to illuminate it. Special scenery, special lighting and special music will enhance the production, which will be an artistic one from every angle. This act has been one of the biggest drawing cards over the vaudeville circuits this year. Everywhere it has met with tremendous enthusiasm. Miss Fredericks is a versatile woman who has framed a most unusual and beautiful production.

Arthur McWatters and Grace Tyson will give their "Nothing New Beneath the Sun," only, from the minute the twain get into action, vaudeville lovers will be convinced that the little isn't just right. Their latest offering consists of songs, chatter, dance, travesty, drama and other bits which they scored in their musical comedies and the Ziegfeld Follies. The Four Fayre Sisters, the great concertina quartet, will give their amazingly interesting musical pot-pourri. The sisters are real sisters, attractive young women with grace and actual beauty. They are English, and they have been one of the biggest attractions of the music halls of recent months. There is not an act of its kind. Confined to Page Nine

LOWELL SAILORS HOME ON LEAVE

Walter F. Bryan of 123 East Merrimack street and Arthur G. Welsh of 35 Andover street, both of whom enlisted in the navy August 3, are at home on a 10 days' leave. At the expiration of their leave, next Tuesday, they will return to Newport and from there will be shipped to the western coast, where they will go on duty with the Asiatic squadron. As this squadron is booked for a trip to China this winter, it is quite probable that the Lowell boys will visit the Orient.

William Tully, of 57 George street, who enlisted at the same time as Bryan and Welsh, is also home on leave and he will go to the electrical school at Hampton roads at the expiration of his leave. A competitive examination for attendance at this school was held recently and Tully received the highest mark.

During the past week John A. McDonough of 235 Appleton street resided at the local navy recruiting office for duty as a seaman, first class, on board the U.S.S. Shawmut, and Glenn Ducharme of Bedford enlisted as a fireman, third class.

Tracks of N. Y. Central Slide Into River

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A landslide at Garrison, N. Y., which caused the main line east bound tracks of the New York Central Railway to slide into the Hudson river, was reported by the company here today. The landslide occurred last night, when traffic was light, at a point opposite West Point where steam shovels have been making an open cut out of what had been a double track tunnel. Traffic suffered only a temporary delay, the rail officials reported. Fast bound trains were being handled without interruption over extra tracks.

kind held in higher esteem in Europe. Henry S. Tomer and Miss Eether Day will present, "A Very Bad Cold," which was adapted from a startling story written by Kenneth Harris. Inasmuch as Mr. Tomer and Miss Day are seasoned players, their act should "go over" with snap.

NEXT WEEK'S OFFERING AT OPERA HOUSE

When George Broadhurst wrote "Bought and Paid For," he hewed a distinctive niche for himself in American drama. He has written a still greater play in "Wild Oats Lane," a dramatization of the tremendously popular novel, "The Fighting Parson." "Wild Oats Lane" will be the attraction of the Al Luttinger stock players at the Opera House all next week. Tickets are now on sale.

"Wild Oats Lane" is a marvelous blending of romance, laughter, stirring drama and pathos. Tears and sunshine fill two hours and a half of as fine entertainment as the players have ever offered their friends here. In addition to that it carries a big, splendid American ideal that will be carried away when you leave the theatre. It gives you something to think about as well as an unusual afternoon or evening's entertainment.

The four central characters of "Wild Oats Lane" are "The Kid" which will be portrayed by Victor Browne, "Sweet Marie," which Miss Hazel Corinne will act, and "Father Joe," the greatest part that Mr. Malcolm McLeod has ever had a chance to do, and "The Professor," a roll that will call for all the well known skill that Mr. Lloyd Sabine has at his command.

The Kid and Sweet Marie have been boy and girl sweethearts. Fate has thrown them apart and brought them together again, the Kid, a crook, wounded and hunting for "get away money." Sweet Marie, a girl about ready to give up because life has nearly beaten her. They meet at the study of "Father Joe," the parish priest, a man of deep understanding and great humanity; a man who has won his way into the confidence of the people of "Wild Oats Lane." Then in all their lives comes the "Professor," the black sheep brother of "Father Joe," the relentless, embittered man who has jumped prison.

For three swift moving, gripping acts the story moves onward, dealing with the struggle of the two young people to go straight, "Father Joe's" fight to help them despite the stumbling blocks thrown in his path by the "Professor." Then when victory seems in sight, society points thumbs down at the boy and the girl. They have been crooks. They don't belong. At the same time, "Father Joe" faces the choice of the great sacrifice of unworthiness to his trust. He makes the sacrifice.

The manner in which the problem is worked out and final happiness won by all forms the balance of this absorbing play.

The demand for seats to "Wild Oats Lane" has been exceptionally large and Manager Barlett suggests that regular patrons of the house secure theirs before it is too late to get their favorite places.

Shorter film attractions will round out this fine Sunday program.

COMMUNISTS LEAD MOBS IN-RAIDS

DRESDEN, Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Peasants in the Mulde valley could scarcely believe their eyes recently when at day break they went to the fields to work and discovered that hundreds of acres of wheat and other grains in the shock had disappeared like magic over night. The Mulde district, it developed, had been invaded at night by hundreds of unemployed from the cities and towns, and the grain carried away on their backs.

In other localities the unemployed became even bolder and invaded the farms in broad daylight, defied the peasants, and helped themselves not only to grain which had been cut, but picked the ripening fruit, and even dug up whole fields of potatoes, cabbages and other vegetables. The raiders said they were hungry and that they had decided upon force as a means of relieving their stress. In recent times, the authorities announced, that the movement was in the hands of communists. Only a few of the unemployed men were communists, the German police reported, but because of empty stomachs they were easily led by the radicals.

In some instances the crowds numbered 200 to 400 persons made up of men, women and children.

RELIABLE BUSINESS CONCERNS

DISAPPOINTING COTTON CROP IS THE GREATEST SINGLE FACTOR IN MILL SITUATION

Wisdom Apparent in Attitude of Mill Men Who Are Averse to Piling Up Stocks—Monthly Cotton Receipts Here Swell Proportionately With Other Massachusetts Textile Centers

The shortage of raw cotton will be the main subject at the convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers which opens in Boston the last of the month. The question is how the world's cotton industry will fare with 187,000,000 spindles installed but only enough cotton to keep less than 130,000,000 of them employed.

During the past two years the world has consumed 41,000,000 bales and has produced only 31,000,000 bales. In this brief space world supplies have been drawn on to the extent of almost a full American crop. More cotton than ever will be wanted for next year's crop but this year's crop production will not exceed 15,000,000 bales if it reaches that point. To keep 125,000,000 spindles running on a normal basis between 22,000,000 and 23,000,000 bales is required.

To Stimulate Production
The chief action on the subject is likely to be the taking of steps to stimulate crop production both in America and abroad. This year's production as shown by the above figures, and they are from W. Irving Bullard of Boston president of the association, is far insufficient for world requirements. An effort will be made at the convention to determine a manner by which manufacturers may adjust themselves to the present situation.

The advancing and fluctuating price of raw cotton is attributed by many as the chief reason actuating the recent Amoskeag shutdown. Government officials close to the textile situation, according to word from Washington, believe the real reason to be lack of orders. Many folks believe the shut-down was caused by the failure of Amoskeag employees to favor the employee representation plan, not scheme of the management, which was defeated two weeks ago by ballot. There are any number of conjectures regarding the shutdown and no definite well-founded statements, other than what has been said by Amoskeag officials.

Condone Present Curtailment
Next year, a presidential election year, is looked forward to hopefully. All concerned in the present textile situation will be contented to go on through the remainder of the calendar year about as is. By wise ones the present curtailment policies are considered as well-advised, the result of a better market for next year being the more assured. A big demand for summer wear and sport goods is looked to while all signs point to the best heavyweight season since the war.

It is held essential by some authorities that the mills of this time should continue their policies of running entirely on orders and avoiding the piling up of excess stocks. This is because the cotton supply will not balance consumption if stock piling is resorted to. By retaining from piling up stock mills will go a long way toward helping to relieve the possibility of an acute cotton shortage.

Cotton Receipts Improve
It was only a few years ago that we had 16,000,000 bales of cotton against the present government prediction of 11,000,000 bales. With the resultant supply of raw materials far in excess of needs it did not make much difference what the mills did with it. Because of the low cotton costs stocks were run up then that many mills have hardly completed liquidating. If this action was taken with this year's crop prohibitive prices, due to the difference in the yield, would cripple business immensely.

A slight improvement in the total receipts of cotton at Lowell and the other four big mill cities of New England is noted for September, the figures totalling 32,608 bales as against 23,369 bales for August. They also compared favorably with the September receipts of the previous season, which were 33,841 bales, but are below the figure for the same month in 1921 which was 45,490 bales.

Lowell Shows a Gain
Receipts at Lowell last month totalled 5551 bales against 5015 bales for the previous month and 13,930 bales for September of 1922. The September receipts at Lawrence were 1947 bales as against 2845 bales for August and 865 bales for September receipts of 1922. Totals for the season for Lowell, Lawrence, Manchester, New Bedford and Fall River show 53,369 bales were received during September and 52,668 bales for the same month of September of this year as against 38,356 and 33,941 for the same months of the year preceding.

Receipts last month at Fall River totalled 11,620 bales, an increase of 6,171 bales over the August arrivals, and compared with 10,002 bales received during September, 1922. At New Bedford last month a total of 12,927 bales were received, 1079 bales by rail and 8,848 bales by boat. Of the 5,848 bales received by boat, 6,102 bales were for destinations outside of New Bedford, only 2,746 bales being for local consumption.

New Bedford Increases
This with the rail receipts, amounts to 6,525 bales for the month. In addition about 2,500 bales of Egyptian have been brought over the road by the trucking system being from Boston spots of old crop. The total receipts at New Bedford last month showed a gain of 5,772 bales over the arrivals during the previous month, and compared with receipts of 9,911 bales during the same month last year.

At Manchester, 24 bales of cotton were received during September, compared with 2,814 bales in August and with 100 bales during September of 1922.

HELD BIG CELEBRATION

Street Parade and Mass Meeting by Christopher Columbus Society

The Christopher Columbus society of this city led the local celebration of Columbus day among the people of Italian birth, yesterday, sponsoring a street parade and a mass meeting in Hamilton hall, Odd Fellows building, with several out-of-town speakers as guests of the occasion.

The parade formed on Union street at the headquarters of the Columbus society, hispanic band of Lawrence led the parade with the Columbus society and the St. Anthony de Padua society following. The chief marshal was Frank Zabba, and he was assisted by Dominick Bernardini, Ferdinando Dorezo, Tullio Carnacchia, and Matteo Sacco. At 3 o'clock the command to march was given and the marchers moved down Union, Gough, Central, and Middlesex streets to the hall.

At the hall the first half hour was given over to a concert by the Lawrence band. Following the concert Mr. Zabba called the meeting to order and introduced, as the first speaker of the day, Dominick Bernardini, president of the Christopher Columbus society. In a short address Mr. Bernardini impressed upon the people the necessity of honoring Columbus and called on the representatives of Columbus' race to be good Americans in thought and in action.

Professor Orlando Della Doria of Boston was the next speaker. Prof. Della Doria is a graduate of Rome university and Naples university and is now studying at Northeastern university in Boston. His subject was "The New Point in Civil Progress Reached with the Discovery of America by Columbus."

Professor Della Doria is one of the greatest Italian orators in this country and he held his audience thrilled from beginning to end with his story of Columbus, the scientist; Columbus, the beggar for ships; and Columbus, the discoverer. He outlined the progress of the world since the discovery of the new world up to the present time and ended his address with a stirring appeal to the Italian people of this city to become good Americans and uphold the government under which they are now living and to hold to the ideals of Columbus.

Several other speakers were included on the program and spoke on the same subject. Following the completion of the address, dancing was enjoyed until late in the evening to the music furnished by the band.

HOSIERY TRADE HEALTHY REPORT SHOWS

August production of hosiery in all grades was approximately 160,000 dozen pairs greater than in July, reports from 235 identical hosiery establishments representing 377 mills indicate. These figures are taken from the regular monthly hosiery report of the bureau of census, department of commerce.

Of the total production there were 53,317 dozen pairs of men's full-fashioned, 1,704,157 dozen pairs of men's seamless, 532,594 dozen pairs women's full-fashioned, 1,026,758 dozen pairs of women's seamless, 436,247 dozen pairs boys' and misses' all styles, 411,257 dozen pairs of athletic and sport.

Orders and stocks at the close of the month were as follows: Shipments during the month, 4,330,641 dozen pairs finished product on hand, 6,775,649 dozen pairs; cancellations during month, 298,736 dozen pairs, and unfilled orders at close of month, 7,590,910 dozen pairs.

All members of the C.M.A.C. are to gather at the clubhouse in Pawtucket street at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and from there will march to St. Joseph's church headed by a local infantry band. At the church solemn exercises will be held, the main slide of the church being reserved for the members. Rev. Louis Richard, O.S.B., chaplain of the organization, is in charge of the church services and as far as is known the services will consist of Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament and a sermon by one of the parish priests.

Following the church ceremony, the members will board special cars at the square and proceed to the cemetery, where solemn exercises will be held on the Memorial lot. A sermon appropriate to the circumstance will be delivered. Prayers and taps will close the exercises.

The committee in charge of the exercises consists of: Romeo Lozano, Arthur, Arthur Genest, William Dumas and Gerald Simard.

The biggest Saturday shopping put over for Lowell merchants what bids fair to be the biggest buying day of 1923.

The streets were lined with hustling shoppers throughout the day. In the banks from early morning lines of faithful depositors stood at the recovering windows to make their regular weekly deposits. At the gas company office and other public utility concerns the corps of office help was hard

Hordes of shoppers swarmed the var-

COVERS YEAR'S TUITION

Brendan V. McAdams Awarded Fred C. Weld Harvard Memorial Scholarship

The Lowell Harvard club announced today the award of the Fred C. Weld memorial scholarship for 1923 to Brendan V. McAdams, son of the late Dr.
James P. McAdams. It covers a year's tuition.

Brendan McAdams was graduated from Lowell high school in 1921, but returned in 1922 for post graduate work.
He entered Harvard this September.
Between the years 1917 and 1920 he was at Exeter where he was prominent in athletics, but his greatest prominence in the world of scholastic sports came during his senior and post graduate years at the local school where he played on the football, baseball and basketball teams and was captain of the last named. He also was a member of the glee club and Greenback debating society. At present he is a member of the Harvard second team football squad and will be one of the trial horses for the "varity all season.

The announcement of the award will be received with pleasure by the many people in Lowell who have interestedly followed the boy's progress so far.

SULLIVAN ABOARD BIG
LINER LEVIATHAN

James J. Bruin, chairman of the Sullivan reception committee received a radio message today announcing that Henry Sullivan, the famous channel swimmer, is a passenger on the Giant Liner Leviathan. The message is as follows:

S. S. Leviathan via R. C. Chatham, Mass., Oct. 12, 1923.

James J. Bruin,
Lowell, Mass.
Sullivan is aboard.

As the monster steamship Leviathan, pride of the American passenger fleet, races to port bearing Henry Sullivan, Lowell man who swam the English channel, the committee in charge of arrangements for a proper home-coming reception is active in taking care of the last details in connection with the greeting of a proud city to a distinguished son.

The Sullivan reception fund, which is being taken care of at the office of the chamber of commerce, today showed a slight increase over yesterday's total figures. The nearing of the champion swimmer and the fact that big celebration is now only a matter of hours dis-ference is expected to afford great stimulation to the fund drive. The total amount raised thus far is $2044.00.

Acknowledged through the editions yesterday of The Sun was $2012.00. Since that time donations of $10 each have been received from John E. Harrigan and Abbie Albard. Donations of $5
by Patrick Nestor and Peter H. Donohue and of $2 by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Driscoll complete the roll.

SISTINE CHAPEL CHOIR TO TOUR AMERICA

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Absent from the immediate jurisdiction of the pope for the second time in 15 centuries, the Sistina Chapel choir of Rome will arrive on the Conte Verde today for a tour of the United States.

There are 54 singers in the choir for this tour. It is composed of ecclesiastics, boy chorists of the chapel, "scholae" and "tripleni" or understudies. Monsignor Rella, Maestro of the choir in Rome, will accompany them.

The choir will make its first appearance in America at Carnegie hall next Thursday night, clothed in all the many lived ecclesiastical regiments in which it sings at important papal functions—the Vatican. The program will include such age-old ritualistic compositions as Missa, Te Deum, the Improperia, the Missa Brevis and the Lamentations, all sung without accompaniment.

CITY SOLICITOR BACK
City Solicitor Patrick J. Reynolds returned to his duties at city hall this morning after spending an enjoyable

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct.
12.—(By the Associated Press) Back across the muddy Harlem today came the New York Nationals and New York Americans to do battle in the fourth game of the 1923 world's series.

Awaiting at noon the appearance of the two teams, in the most crucial of this year's contests, were between 15,000 and 20,000 fans who completely filled the small cracker box bleachers and more than half of the reserved seats of the double decked grandstand. Several hundred of them stood in the part of the night and when the gates were thrown open, the bleachers were quickly filled.

It was the nearest approach to summer weather which had been vouchsafed the series. The sun was warm, but it had to penetrate layers of mist and murk that settled over the oval enclosure. Some of the optimistic bleacherites sat in shirtsleeves.

A squad of Giants under the care of Coach Cozy Dolan came on the field about a quarter after 12. The ballplayers went about their preparations listlessly and spent most of their time watching the comedians, Allrock and Schacht, chase the rainbow.

Where the atmosphere on the opening day was gay with anticipation, that of the second day suffocating with listlessness and that of yesterday charged with the most unbalancing of excitement that of today was heavy with foreboding. If an X-ray could have been used it would have revealed hearts shrouding sympathy and beating time to a dirge.

Even when a squad of Yankees came on at 12:20 there was no cheering.
They began to toss the ball with all the appearance of grim determination in their faces. They didn't have the elasticity of yesterday or the buoyancy of the first day when the greatest honors of the game lay unpicked in the lap of the Gods.

At 12:30 Wally Pipp, the Yankee first baseman, who was forced out of yesterday's encounter when he injured a sprained ankle, came to his club's dressing room to get into logs.
He worked out with the team and when the game started he was at his old post.

Strained Relations

There was an appearance of strained relations between the two teams, particularly over the ninth inning episode yesterday in which the Yankees accused Frank Snyder, the Giant catcher, of tipping the bat of Aaron Ward, when Pitcher Schuch threw over a ball on which the Yankee second baseman was called out. There was no jovial bantering, nor exchange of mutual expressions of admiration.

The Batteries

Scott and Snyder was announced as the battery for the Giants.

Shawkey and Schuch was announced as the battery for the Yankees.

First Inning

Yankees: Witt singled past Bancroft. Dugan popped to Snyder trying to hunt. Babe fanned. Bancroft took Meusel's grounder and tossed the ball to Frisch at second and Witt was out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Giants: Bancroft flied out to Meusel. Groh popped to Ward. Frisch laced a single over Ward's head.
Young singled into left, Frisch stopping at second. Meusel forced Young, Ward to Scott. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Second Inning

Yankees: Pipp singled over second

Schuch's sacrifice bunt and the bases were filled. Pipp and Ward scored on E. Scott's single to left. Schuch went to third. Scott was knocked out of the box, the third Giant pitcher to be sent to the bench by the Yankee batsmen in the series. Ryan went into the box for the Giants. Shawkey up Schuch scored on Shawkey's sacrifice fly to Stengel.
Scott held first. Witt got a long hit into left and Scott scored. It was a two-base run for Witt. Groh took Du-gan's grounder and touched Witt. Ruth walked. Dugan and Ruth scored on Meusel's three-bagger to left. Ryan was knocked out of the box, the second Giant pitcher to be sent back to the bench in the inning. McQuillan went into the box for the Giants. Pipp flied out to Stengel. Six runs, five hits, one error.

Giants: Stengel walked. Kelly singled into right. Snyder fouled out to Schuch. McQuillan went out, Pipp to Shawkey. Stengel going to third and Kelly to second. Bancroft flied out to Meusel. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Third Inning

Yankees: Ward strolled to first.
Snyder sacrificed McQuillan to Kelly.
Scott singled into centre and Ward went to third. Shawkey fouled out to Snyder. Ward scored on Witt's double to left, Scott going to third. Dugan flied out to Stengel. One run, two hits, no errors.

Giants: Ward threw out Groh. Frisch spun a single into center, his second hit. Young fouled out to Schuch. Meusel struck out, swinging at a high in-shoot. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fourth Inning

Yankees: Babe got a base on balls.
McQuillan tried to pick Ruth off first.
Meusel struck out, swinging at a wide curve. Pipp hit into left for a single.
Ruth going to third. Pipp's bad ankle prevented him from making a two-base hit. Ruth scored on Ward's single through Groh. Pipp going to second.
Schuch sent up a high fly to Frisch.
Scott popped to Bancroft. One run, two hits, no errors.

Giants: Stengel swung at a ball and the umpire finally allowed it to be called a strike. There was a long argument at the plate. Stengel walked for the second time. Kelly singled into left, Stengel going to second. Snyder hit into a double play, Shawkey to Dugan to Pipp, Kelly going to second. Mc-Quillan fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fifth Inning

Yankees: Shawkey singled out Groh.
Witt sacrificed. Snyder and Kelly.
Dugan flied out to Meusel. Ruth hit a ball that was near inside fair territory.
It would have been a homer. Ruth

TRAFFIC CONDITIONS
AT WORST TODAY

No better exemplification of the need of improved traffic conditions downtown could be afforded than the jam which occurred in Central street between Market and Warren streets at just 11 o'clock this forenoon. Four solid lines of pleasure cars and automobile trucks were moving toward the postoffice when they encountered similar lines traveling toward the square. The result was an absolute blockade and nothing moved for seven minutes.
Just at a time when the street railway company was making every effort to provide transportation for the noon hour, several of its cars were caught in the jam and were thrown 10 minutes off schedule.

struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Giants: Ward took Bancroft's hot smash and threw him out. Groh sent a long fly out to Meusel. Ruth made a nice catch of Frisch's short fly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning

Yankees: Meusel fouled out to Kelly, who made the catch near the grandstand. Pipp fouled out to Snyder, who also made a good catch. Ward lined out to Frisch. No runs, no hits, no errors.

This was the first inning the Yankees did not make a single hit.
Giants: Young got a Texas leaguer into center field. Shawkey threw out Meusel at first. It was no sacrifice.
Young went to second. Stengel singled into left, Meusel making a beautiful stop and compelling Young to return to second. Kelly flied out to Ruth.
Young going to third on the catch.
Stengel held first. Snyder forced Sten-gel. Dugan to Ward. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning

Yankees: Schuch smashed a slow ball over the middle section for a single.
Scott went out to Kelly, unassisted. It was not a sacrifice. Schuch went to second. Shawkey sent a long fly out to Stengel and then sat down. Bancroft threw out Witt. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Giants: Bentley batted for McQuillan.
Bentley got a Texas leaguer into left.
Meusel ran for Bentley. Dugan leaped into the air and speared Bancroft's lined and then threw out Meusel at first.
Groh walked on four pitched balls.
Frisch fouled out to Pipp who limped as he ran to make the catch. No runs, one hit, no errors.

BIGGEST LIQUOR RAID EVER MADE IN LOWELL RESULTS
IN $8000 SEIZURE

A sensational early-morning seizure of over $7000 worth of re-distilled alcohol, and two stills with a valuation of $500 each, was made today by Sergt. Winn and Officers Liston, Leahy, Cooney and Moore of the liquor squad, the confiscation of the place in a large barn in the suburb of Olmlik during the night and spread to various parts of the city when the plunderers found themselves virtually unopposed.

Near Anarchy in Duesseldorf

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Duesseldorf was thrown into a state approximating anarchy today by throngs of desperate unemployed workers who during the early morning hours began a campaign of systematic plundering. The pillaging started in the suburb of Olmlik during the night and spread to various parts of the city when the plunderers found themselves virtually unopposed.

OIL TRUCK TURNS TURTLE

Hits Track Welder in Effort to Avoid Collision With Trolley Car

Shortly after two o'clock this afternoon, a Standard Oil tank truck, operated by Daniel Burke, in attempting to avoid collision with an electric car at the corner of Chelmsford and Westford streets, swerved and turned turtle, striking John Dowd of West Sixth street, an employee of the street railway company, who was engaged in welding the tracks at this intersection.

Dowd sustained several painful cuts about the forehead and face and was taken to St. John's hospital in a passing machine. The injuries are not thought serious.

Although the truck was slightly damaged, the driver and his assistant, William Rhea, were uninjured. The truck was righted and proceeded.

Plans for Deliberate Slaying of Prominent Residents Charged

Cripple, Famed as Astrologer, Accused at Marshfield, Oregon

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Oct. 12.—Plans for the deliberate slaying of prominent residents of Coos county with their families, were laid by Arthur Covell, 47, a cripple, famed as an astrologer, according to his reported confession to authorities here. With his 16-year-old nephew, Alton Covell, he is held in the county jail after indictment on a murder charge in connection with the death of Mrs. Fred Covell, Sept. 2 last.

The nephew, it is said by the authorities, has confessed that he killed his stepmother while under the influence of his crippled uncle. The confession, it is declared, tells how the youth, hypnotized by the bed-ridden man, crept upon his step-mother on the morning of Sept. 2, while she was at work in her kitchen, and clamping an American naked cloth over her face, smothered her to death.

The astrologer, according to his purported admissions and to the confession of the nephew, based his schemes for the killing of Mrs. Covell and for wiping out at least a dozen persons of Coos county, upon the stars.

FINED $300 ON LIQUOR CHARGE; REARRESTED

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Oct. 12.—Dean
F. Wilton, 36, of Worcester, Mass., a travelling salesman who was arrested here last Saturday, after two quarts of whiskey and two quarts of champagne and some straw containers had been found in his automobile in the federal garage, pleaded guilty in the municipal court this forenoon to possessing liquor illegally and paid a fine of $300, with costs imposed by Judge Arthur P. Carpenter. Wilton was then arrested again and turned over to Police Captain Irving G. Hussey of Haverhill, Mass., on an indictment charging him with fraudulently obtaining an endorsement in connection with a loan. He left with Captain Hussey by automobile for Lawrence, Mass.

WILLIAM A. GRAHAM'S
FATHER IS DYING

The chamber of commerce and Lowell police have been requested to help locate William A. Graham, a foundry-man who worked in Lowell mills during 1916.
His father is dying at his home in Springfield and desires to see his son before the end if possible.

Requests that efforts be made to locate him are from C. H. Evans, 435 Court Square building, Springfield, who says Mr. Graham while here resided at 277 High street. Efforts to locate him at that address or to find persons in the neighborhood who might remember him have proved futile. Officials of the foundry's local here will be asked to aid in finding Mr. Graham.

PAINS IN BACK?

Listen to What Mr. McCay Says About It.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"For several years I had been subject to severe pains in my back, which often became so intense that I was compelled to cease work for days at a time. I could hardly walk. I feared I was about to lose a health or experience a general breakdown. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets on Saturday night and in less than twenty-four hours all trace of pain had completely gone, and although ten weeks have now elapsed I have never felt the slightest return of the pain. I will be pleased to recommend Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets to any one whose condition may be similar."—Henry McCay, 100 Milton St., (Greenpoint). COURT BLANCHE DE CASTILLE F. F. A.

The regular meeting of Court Blanche de Castille F. F. A., was held at C.M.A.U. hall last evening with President Ida Fortin in the chair. Initiation of a new member was held, the usual impressive ceremonies attending. Six applications for membership in the order were also received. Minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted. Reports of the various committees were submitted and also accepted. The question before the members last evening was the changing of the court's quarters, and it was unanimously voted that the court retain its present quarters. Under the present regulations the court has access to the C.M.A.U. hall evening during the course of the year, for entertainment purposes, and it was voted to hold a whist and entertainment party Thanksgiving week. The guard has received an invitation to give an exhibition in Nashua on Oct. 28, and the captain, Miss Ida Grenier, will hold regular drills, beginning this evening at 6:30 o'clock and continuing during the weeks previous to their scheduled appearance.

REAL ESTATE SALES

Thomas H. Elliott, real estate and general insurance, 41 Central street, corner Prescott, reports the following sales negotiated during the past week. On behalf of Mrs. Nathan B. Hartford, Jr. of Arlington, Mass., conveyance has been effected of the modern apartment property at 91-93 Fort Hill avenue. The house has two apartments of eight rooms and bath each. Land totalling four square feet is conveyed in the transfer. The property is a portion of the estate of the late P. K. Brown. The grantees are Patrick M. Flanagan and Julia Flanagan, who purchase for both occupancy and investment.

In the Centralville section conveyance has been made of the residential property at 10 Dana street. The house is of one and one-half story type, and occupies land to the amount of 3269 square feet. The sale is negotiated on behalf of Peter Lary, the grantee being Bridget E. McNiff.

Final papers have been sent to record in the transfer of a building site situated on the easterly side of Devine avenue near its junction with Gosham street. The lot has an area of 5804 square feet, with a street frontage of 50 feet. The sale is effected on behalf of Mary F. Winslow of Chelsea, the grantees being Frank O. Palamara and Caroline G. Palmeren.

In North Billerica transfer of a large tract of land has been effected. The property in question is located on the westerly side of High street and totals in excess of fifty acres. The parcel has a most extended frontage on both High and Rogers streets, and is for the greater part free level land. This sale is effected on behalf of Bernard Kearney. The grantee is Walter S. Thompson of New York City, who plans an extensive development of the property.

In the Highlands section sale has been effected through this office of an exceptionally high grade two-apartment property situated at 153-155 Styles street, adjoining the corner of Westford street. The property has two apartments of six rooms and bath each, the heat being by steam. It is practically new, and modern to the last detail throughout. Conveyance is made on behalf of Mrs. Dennis J. Conner, the purchasers being Alvin F. Reynolds and William M. Reynolds.

NEW APPOINTMENTS TO OFFICE IN THE ELKS

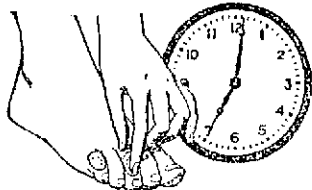

Three new appointments to office in the Elks have been announced by Grand Exalted Ruler MacFarland. Most interesting to Lowell members is that of Michael H. Carron of Woburn, who will assume the duties of district deputy of the Massachusetts Northeast jurisdiction of Elks, including Lowell lodge 87. He succeeds William H. McSweeney of Salem. The other appointments are Hon. John F. Malley of Springfield, to the position of chairman of the judiciary committee of the grand lodge and S. John Conley of Beverly as a member of the credential committee of the grand lodge. Hon. Mr. Malley was formerly the collector of the port of Boston.

CARPENTERS' OUTING AT WILLOW DALE

The members of Local 49, Carpenters' union, held a well-attended and very successful outing at Willow Dale yesterday. A varied program of sports and entertainment were put on during the day and the main feature of the whole outing was a clam bake served by a local caterer.

The opening number in the sports program was a baseball game between the married men and the single men, the former winning by a score of 11 to 7. The winners in the other sports follow: 100-yard dash for young men—Vinat, first, something plane; Molloy, second, back knife. 100-yard dash for older men, first, Dickey, next, second, Tolson, rule. Fat man's race, first, Craig, pipe. Three-legged race, Richardson and Molloy, safety razor and box of cigars, respectively. Hop, step and jump, first, Carney, try-square; O'Brien, second, saw set, broad jump, first, O'Brien, third, second, Molloy, again. Standing jump, first, O'Brien, hammer, second, Molloy, set of flies, hammer throw, first, O'Brien, chisel, second, Burke, belt chain. Tag-of-war (three on a side), Molloy, O'Brien and Culbert, each a pair of Sweet Orr pants. Ernest Craig Jr. and Thomas Lincolnton officiated as judges.

Your Health

PERSPIRATION AND DIGESTION
Perspiration depends on the circulation of the blood. The body not only requires nourishment from the blood for cell growth and repair, but also demands the separation and elimination of waste which cannot be converted into blood and which must be thrown off daily in the normal healthy person. Perspiration is a continuous process, inevitable during periods of inactivity or sedentary life. Better condition of play, exercise or work, even in middle age or infirm adults, which will promote a healthy circulation and convey

an abundance of blood to the glands of the skin, is desired for increased perspiration. Physicians of the present day are well aware that the skin does not play the important part it was formerly supposed to perform in elimination. But it is a great cleansing agent and a sort of health barometer which clearly indicates a good circulation by normal perspiration. In addition to this activity, it is better than any medicine in the preservation of health and prevention of disease. It may be said to remove the cause of many disorders such as body poisons, fat excess and clogged glands and is a means of giving renewed strength and body tone. Perspiration assists the digestion by the promotion of a healthy appetite. The exhalation and renewal of both body and mind are also aids to proper digestion. Good appetite insures a good supply of blood for the body. Good food makes good blood. The life stream of good blood coursing through your body gives good skin activity by exercise and perspiration and so the wheels of body action are kept in healthy motion. DEATHS

STATION—Frank H. Stratton formerly of this city died yesterday at a private hospital at Concord where he had been ill for several weeks. Mr. Stratton was well known in this city although he had of late years resided in Newell Highlands and had maintained an office in Boston. He was a general agent of the Equitable Life Assurance Society and had been most successful in his work. He began his career in life insurance work in Lowell and soon outgrew the Lowell territory and was recognized by the company as one of its ablest and most successful representatives. He is survived by his wife, two children and his father, John S. Stratton of this city.

DETH—Mrs. Exelline (Roy) Hietu, wife of Hormisda Hietu, a resident of this city for the past 54 years and well known in French-American circles, died Thursday night at her home, 12 Dane street, aged 55 years, after a long illness. She leaves besides her husband, one son, Isadore Hietu of this city; three sisters, Mrs. Simon Hietu of Endicott, N. Y., and the Misses Natalie and Rose Roy of this city; two brothers, Laurent Roy of Gardner and Joseph Roy of this city. She was an attendant of St. John Baptist church and was a member of St. Anne's sodality. She was also a benefactress of the French-American orphanage.

COHEN—Wolfe Cohen, a resident of 71 Howard street, died yesterday morning at the Massachusetts General hospital, Boston, aged 65 years. The body was brought to this city and removed to the home by Undertakers Amodeo Archambault & Sons. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon from his home, 71 Howard street. Burial was in the family lot in the Israel B'nai B'rith cemetery in Pelham, N. H. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Amodeo Archambault & Sons.

FLINN—Mrs. Annie J. Ryan Flinn, a life long resident of the Sacred Heart parish, died this morning after a lingering illness which she bore with true Christian fortitude. She was well and favorably known in the parish, being a devoted attendant of the church and an interested worker in all its activities. She was the widow of John J. Flinn. She leaves four sisters, Misses Mary E., Hannah E., Sarah A. Ryan and diversified and seemed confined to no definite group. In the men's stores and the women's wear stores as in all various shops the perfect buying power of industrial Lowell went on a spree.

The mills having paid Thursday and the intervening holiday having afforded to many a rare opportunity to study the advertisements of Saturday bargain attractions, and there were many of them, the shopping carnival of 1923, unadvised as such, but named from the interest shown at all sides, was under way with the commencement of Saturday business.

It was a buying crowd, not a "look-ink" crowd that descended upon the Lowell merchants today. In the various stores and markets the receipts at noon indicated that an unheralded buying boom was under way. And the merchants were not at all unprepared for it. They handled the trade well. Knowing that sooner or later the hubbub of reserved buying would burst and Lowell would commence to show its purchasing power the stores were prepared for "the day."

"The advertisements in The Sun on Friday are entitled to as much and perhaps more credit than any one factor in the success of today's business," said one store head this morning who found difficulty in sparing even a few moments to show his jubilation at the day's business. "The wisdom of the holiday advertising when a business day follows, is certainly clearly shown. Many of the people—yes, most of the people who come in here have seen some particular offering which we advertised yesterday. We have to give credit to The Sun for helping in putting over what looks like a whale of a day for us."

The various restaurants at noon reflected the intention of shoppers to "make a day of it." Few went home at noon and the restaurants handled the biggest noon-day crowds of any Saturday this year. Even the trolley car operators remarked that almost everyone starting home this afternoon was well loaded down with bundles when boarding the car.

The police details had their work cut out for them in handling the traffic which assumed gigantic proportions long before noon and kept raining in cascading waves, and their job was not an easy one, however, and no serious accidents, or injuries were reported.

The baseball game kept the men folk downtown throughout the afternoon. Men's stores report the best Saturday sale on soft hats thus far this season while the sales of top-coats and advance sales of heavy overcoats were well beyond expectations.

Safe Fat Reduction

Reduce, reduce, reduce, in the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the over-fat wring their hands in mortification and helplessness, revelling in the thought of the slim, the slender, the desirable, however, and no serious accidents, or injuries were reported.

FUNERALS

BURNAN—With relatives and friends from Providence, R. I., Washington, D. C., New York City and Cambridge, among the large congregation, funeral services for the late John Burnan were held at the Sacred Heart church at 10 o'clock this morning. The church was well filled. Deceased had been well and favorably known here for a number of years before he came to Cambridge. He was particularly well remembered by many of the old settlers for his pleasing personality, his honorable dealings and his charitable acts had endeared him to all with whom he came in contact. The funeral cortege left the home of Mrs. Robert H. Harkins, daughter of deceased, in Ellsworth street at 9:30, and proceeded to the church, where a funeral high mass was sung at 10 o'clock by Rev. Jeremiah Kennedy, O.M.I. Solos of the mass were sustained by Miss Harriet Moran, Masters Francis Powers and James Campbell, and Mr. Raymond Kelley. The sanctuary choir, under the direction of Mr. Kelley, who presided at the organ, sang the Gregorian chant. There was a profusion of beautiful floral offerings to testify the high esteem in which the deceased was held. The funeral was borne by the following bearers: Messrs. John Hogan, William Draper, William Dwyer, Thomas Higgins, George Callahan, and James Higgins. Burial was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read at the grave by Rev. Fr. Kennedy, O.M.I. Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers O'Connell & Fay.

AT SCORE BOARD

So realistic are the details of the world series games depicted by the electric score board which is playing every game at the Crescent rink during the big baseball classic that fans cheer and jeer as the lights portray their "favorites" or "enemies" in action. All of the players participate in the games none enjoys the popularity of Babe Ruth. When he hits a tremendous cheer goes up, when he is walked and burst of tazzazzes in given for the out. So contagious does the shouting become the fans forget that they are looking at a reproduction and believe they are right in the grounds viewing the actual playing of the game. The board is a marvelous device, and it must be able to fully represent all games, which start promptly at 2 o'clock.

Seven years ago Walter Clarkson won the golf championship of the Vesper Country Club played over the old nine-hole course. Yesterday over the new 18-hole layout of which the club now boasts he reached the pinnacle again when he defeated Marshall Forrest, schoolboy crick, 6 up and 4 down in the final round. The veteran's game was more brilliant yesterday than it was in 1916 and after the morning round of 18 holes had sent the pair to lunch on terms Walter stepped out in the matinee engagement and quickly piled up a lead that the fast-stepping youngster could not whittle away.

Facing to the turn in 37 strokes in the afternoon Clarkson set sail for home with a four hole advantage tucked away in his bag. Pars fluttered from his woods and from the 10th and 11th and he was six up. Forrest prolonged the inevitable for a moment when he captured the 12th but when the 13th was halved Clarkson had him down five. A win for the old Harvard pitcher going across the creek gave him the crown, 6 and 4.

The play during the morning round during which Clarkson never was down and never more than 2 up at any stage fulfilled all prognostications of a tight match. Walter stood on No. 17 tee with a two hole advantage but when Forrest laid an iron a few feet from the cup and holed for a par 3 and when he followed this effort with four perfect shots on the long 18th, he had squared the match in a sensational finish.

While Clarkson's sound game became more and more brilliant and deadly in the afternoon Forrest fell away from his championship stride and after a half on the first hole dropped the next three in rapid succession. That was the beginning of the end as Walter held and added to this advantage from that point on.

On seven of the outward nine holes in the afternoon Clarkson clicked off pars, on the third he was one over and on the fifth he was one under. Against this exhibition Forrest's game melted away and the four strokes he trailed him during out represented the hole-advantage the new champion piled up.

A fair sized gallery watched the match in the morning and nearly 100 men and women trudged over the fairways in the afternoon to watch the struggle.

British Turfman Predicts $100,000 Horse Race Will Be Postponed

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—J. B. Joel, widely known British turfman, predicted today before sailing on the Majestic, that the $100,000 international horse race scheduled for Belmont park next Saturday, would have to be postponed or cancelled because of the condition of Papyrus, the British Derby winner matched against Zev, the American contender.

Joel, who released Jockey Steve Donaghy, now on his way to this country, from a contract so that he could attend the race, said he had abandoned his intention of witnessing the race because its sporting quality had been taken away by the inequality of the horses.

Papyrus, he declared, was under-trained, was in bad condition and would carry a greater weight than Zev.

GREENWICH, Conn., Oct. 13.—While police here have failed to establish a motive for the shooting of Milton A. Maas, wealthy New York man, last Thursday night while he was in company of Mrs. Ida M. Leslie, Sound Beach resident, they are working on the theory that he was attacked by gunmen hired for the purpose of effecting his death. It was stated today. The search for the assailants has shifted to New York city. Maas' condition was reported at the Stamford hospital as "very satisfactory."

Mrs. Leslie today reiterated her belief that the attackers were merely amateur robbers.

The automobile found abandoned one-half mile from the house has been eliminated as being a vehicle for the assailants. It being established that the machine was stolen from Winthrop Mass., at 1 a.m. Friday, whereas the shooting occurred, at about 7.15 p.m. Thursday.

Fortune Teller's Story Caused Dracul Man to Abuse His Wife

Ludwig Stackelous, who lives in Dracul, went to have a seance with a fortune teller and she told him that he was going to die and that his wife would marry. The thought of his wife marrying another man was too much for Ludwig and he upbraided her for it. But, as she said, she could not convince him that such a thought never entered her head.

The prophecy of the seer, however, kept uppermost in Ludwig's mind, and he then began to beat up his wife, according to the story she told Judge Enright in district court this morning. The last assault, upon which she had him arrested, occurred Thursday night, she said.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERSHIP LUNCHEON

Reservations for the first fall membership luncheon of the chamber of commerce, to be held at 12.15 o'clock Wednesday noon, are being received in substantial numbers. As Liberty hall seats only about 200, luncheon guests and members have the privilege of bringing wives and guests to the meeting and it is confidently expected that the full quota will have been reached long before reservations close Tuesday evening.

Because of this, Secretary Wells asks that those intending to attend do not procrastinate in the matter of making reservations but attend to the matter at once. The speaker, Congressman Carroll L. Beedy of Portland, Me., was heard at the chamber's appreciation dinner last December. Since that time the chamber has been flooded with requests that he be invited here again.

Congressman Beedy has returned from a European trip since his appearance here last December and it is expected that his message will be of great interest to every one in attendance at the dinner.

Police Hunt for Man Who Brutally Strangled New York Store Girl

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A systematic search covering several states and parts of Canada was launched last night by the police in an effort to run down the man who yesterday morning brutally strangled to death Estelle Phillips, whose body was found by a girl friend early yesterday in her furnished room in 97th st. with a towel knotted about her neck and her body showing signs of an attack and a struggle.

NICK ALTROCK TELLS HUG HOW TO BEAT GIANTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Nick Altrock, baseball's premier clown, had a bright idea after yesterday's game and imparted it to Miller Huggins, the Yankee manager.

"Listen now, Hug," whispered Nick. "We just gotta win this series for the American League, and we can't do it with this bird strangeling busting around like he is. You know he can't hit left handed pitchers. Now here's the idea: Use Herb Pennock every day."

Arthur Nehf's victory over the Yankees yesterday was his third out of six starts in the series of 1921, 1922 and this year. In his first two attempts in 1921 he was defeated by Hoyt, but he defeated Hoyt in their third duel of that series, the eighth and deciding game. In 1922 he started the first game and was relieved by Ross Ryan, who received credit for a victory when the Giants rallied and won in the eighth inning. He won the deciding game of the series against Joe Bush.

Casey Stengel is modest about his home runs.

"Aw, gee," he said yesterday after the game. "A guy will meet one on the nose now and then."

"What New York needs," said Col. Jake Ruppert, manager of the Yankees, when he saw the crowd pouring out of the Yankee stadium "is a larger ball park."

Declares Detroit Man's Statement "Filled With Reckless Assertions"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Declaring Henry Ford's statement attacking him in connection with the sale of the Gorgas Steam Power plant of the Muscle Shoals project was "filled with reckless assertions," Secretary Weeks in a formal reply published today reviewed at length the administration's course in dealing with the Detroit manufacturer's offer for a project.

Weeks beyond his formal reply, Secretary Weeks refused to comment on Mr. Ford's statement, there was every indication of a feeling of keen resentment at the Detroit manufacturer's charges that political influence had operated to prevent his obtaining Muscle Shoals.

Denishawn Stars in Egyptian Duet

In recent years dancing has been degenerating into a thing of mere sensual appeal. Many a reproach has been laid at our own door on this account. But America with its usual vitality has been gradually emerging from the chaos of jazz and evolving an art of dancing essentially American in its form, though universal in its appeal.

A pioneer in this field is unquestionably Ruth St. Denis. As a girl she became imbued with the idea that every human emotion could be expressed in rhythmic motion, that it was possible to translate a mood, an episode, a story, into a sequence of beautiful attitudes and gestures. And following this idea she has cast off the shackles of formality, the stiffness of classicism, the monotony of the Russian school, and has evolved an art, which in its versatility, racial variety and freedom from convention is amazingly American, and, therefore, universal.

Most of us have felt the seductive strains of a waltz, have felt the irresistible desire to swing with the strain. But only a genius, like Ruth St. Denis, could estimate the visual fraction of the great music works of master musicians. And only, thanks to her, can America claim supremacy in at least one form of art, which is being copied by the rest of the world.

Miss St. Denis and Ted Shawn will make their local appearance, at the Auditorium on October 23. The public sale opened today. No telephone orders will be taken after the sale opens and reservations that have been made will be kept until Monday next.

GOES TO JAIL RATHER THAN PAY $20 FINE

GREENFIELD, Oct. 13.—George Fensiek, a Sunderland farmer, went to jail today rather than pay a $20 district court fine for failure to send his daughter Annie, a pupil of the sixth grade to school. The girl's teacher testified that Annie was absent from the opening of school on Sept. 4 until Sept. 12 and also from Sept. 24 to Oct. 5. Fred Welsh, attendance officer said she declared "she did not care for school or the district court." When Judge Field found Fensiek guilty today and imposed the fine the defendant said he would never pay it. He was taken to the county jail. A similar case occurred here two years ago when Rev. Walter Carroll, then pastor at Lyden refused to pay a fine after being found guilty of the same offense. After 24 hours in jail he paid and was released.

Mrs. Coolidge recently declined to accept the invitation of the American Pen Woman's League to become a member. Somehow it is difficult to recall so modest an estimate of self, in other women of high official life. At any rate, it is a rare estimate.

vestigation of the situation throughout the country and will, at a near future date, be so fully armed with facts, that he believes he can show congress the need of such legislation and that it will be enacted.

Nine states now have more than ten per cent of their children of ages ten to fifteen years, at work. These are: Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas. In those states illiteracy is above the average, and school attendance below the average.

Senator Johnson's Plans

Senator Magnus Johnson of Minnesota is just now holding the center of the stage in all Washington despatches. He is in Washington looking for a home for himself, Mrs. Johnson and a few of the children, leaving the eldest boys at home to take care of the farm.

Mr. Johnson says he wants a place where he can keep a cow. As cows are rare luxuries in Washington it's a safe guess he will be rather popular, if he shares cream with his neighbors. The capital city has few if any attractive suburbs where cows can graze, and the colleagues of the Minnesota farm bloc senator must depend on far away herds to supply their milk wants.

President Taft kept a fine Jersey in the White House grounds, but it grazed only in a secluded corner of the great White House lot. President Wilson had sheep grazing within a stone throw of the great pillared official entrance to the historic mansion, but senators have as a rule, foregone the comfort of semi-farm life. But whether or not we all approve of Mr. Johnson's political ideas,

we must certainly approve of his proposed cow.

Would Give Coolidge a Chance

One of the first remarks made by the new Minnesota senator at his first interview with press gallery correspondents, was "Unloading hay is easier than being a senator." Commenting on President Coolidge and his possible candidacy for the presidency, Mr. Johnson said: "We ought to give him a chance to show up; he hasn't had time to turn 'round yet," all of which indicates there will be some senatorial talk with a genuine local twang, when Mr. Johnson gets under way. Mr. Johnson remarked he wasn't in very good voice, but all the same the newspaper men said it sounded as if he were using an amplifier.

PROGRAM AT MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

A strange love that comes to a matter-of-fact young man with the sudden fury of the night storm that hurls a beautiful girl into the shelter of his home, is the pivotal point of "Strangers of the Night," Fred Nobile's new drama which opens a four days' engagement at the Merrimack Square tomorrow. It will continue Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday and is expected to draw large houses because it is easily one of the outstanding photoplay sensations of the year.

"Strangers of the Night," in screen form, is a version of Walter Hackett's stage play which ran for a year in New York with Wallace Reid in the title role and was played for a year in London by Charles Hawtrey.

In the screen version, Matt Moore steps into the shoes of the stage star as the timid young Englishman who dreams he is a pirate and develops piratical manners in real life. Barbara Le Marr, distinguished for her performances in "The Three Musketeers" and "The Prisoner of Zenda," is again cast as an adventuress, playing the charming Russian, Anna Valeska, the role that Mary Nash played on the stage.

Gold Bennett, the Maid Marion of "Robin Hood," becomes the little English maid, "Penny Fair," who, in the dream part of the story, is transformed into a cabin boy on the pirate ship. This is the role in which Phoebe Dexter won her stage reputation.

Robert McKim, the villain of most of William S. Hart's pictures, is cast in the role of Boris, the Russian spy, who becomes a leader of the pirate mutiny in the dream. Other noted screen players are cast in important parts.

A rollicking, melodramatic comedy of

Scene From "Jacqueline" at The Strand

If it's a gripping tale of the North woods, with thrills, love romance, wonderful scenic effects and commendable characterizations, then don't miss seeing James Oliver Curwood's story, "Jacqueline," or "Blazing Barriers," which opens at the Strand for four days, beginning Sunday. An all-star cast, headed by Lew Cody, Marjorie Courtot, Edmund Breese, Effie Shannon, Sheldon Lewis, and J. Barney Sherry help to make this presentation one that patrons of pictures hereabouts will long remember. The central figure about which the author has written such an amazing, and at the same time thrilling tale, is Jacqueline Holand, daughter of parents who live in the heart of the Canadian timber country. Two men seek her hand, one a clean-living, whole-souled woodman who loved her in girlhood, and the other is a city chap, whose past has been a bit shady, but whose experiences with life gives him a temporary marked advantage in the contest for the heart and hand of the girl. What the outcome is, and what transpires during the progress of the story is best told by the film. To review it, even briefly at this time, would not be quite fair to those who anticipate seeing it. All of the thrills and wonderful scenic effects generally found in a story with such a locale, are found in this serial of events in the north, while the characterizations, treated by such a superior cast, are most commendable. James Oliver Curwood never wrote a stronger or more gripping story—and he has written many. Contained in the offering are a varied assortment of "punches" so thrilling as to bring the most calloused theatre-goer to his or her feet. There is a sequence that shows two men in a the Spanish Main and modern London is "Strangers of the Night." It is a mystery of romance, of adventure and love, told graphically against a background of rare beauty. It opens in a mansion on the Cornish coast of England and leads from a drawing room to a pirate cruise and back before the unexpected climax is reached.

Speculators are thrilled by intense drama and swept into sales of laughter as Matt Moore in the role of "Capt. Applejack" fights through the mystery of the treasure hidden in his ancestral castle in Cornwall, and swaggers and swags aboard his pirate ship, contrasted with Barbara Le Marr's dark seductiveness as these two brilliant actresses portray the intricate and romantic adventure of the demure English maid and the brilliant Russian spy.

Lavish photoplay settings mark this production and it has all the elements that go to make up a first class screen play.

The second feature for the first part of the week will be "When the Desert Calls," featuring an all-star cast in an absorbing and entertaining story of adventure.

The usual excellent surrounding program, including the latest issue of the International News and a comedy will be shown.

A special musical program has been arranged by Organist Frank A. Remick for the first part of the week and this should prove one of the attractive features of the offering for Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The management announces the early engagement of "The Cheat," the noted play of modern life, starring Pola Negri, Jack Holt and Charles de Roche, the latter a talented and noted French actor.

was treated as an ordinary first offense charged with illegal keeping and a fine of $100 was imposed by the court.

Officer Lanhey had been watching the premises for the past two nights in the hope of discovering the owner of the property, but as that individual failed to put in an appearance up to four o'clock this morning, it was decided to relieve the harm of its anti-Violentian contents.

Following by Patrolman William Brennan on the way, the squad of officers, armed with a search warrant, prepared to investigate the interior of the innocent-looking structure. All doors and windows were securely bolted and it was necessary to use force to gain admittance.

Upon investigating the premises, the officers came across the biggest seizure of the year. Conveniently packed in wooden and cardboard boxes were several hundred 5-gallon, 2-gallon and 1-gallon cans, the removal of which required eight trips to the Market street station house, where the goods were deposited for safekeeping. Besides the wet product, two 100-gallon stills, one a regular mash still and the other a re-distiller with all the latest improvements and devices, were seized, together with a large quantity of copper coil, rubber hose, funnels, etc. As the stills have an estimated value of $500 each, the total collection would have a valuation of over $8000, a record in this city.

In the barn, at the time of the seizure, were two large trucks bearing registration numbers, indicating them to be the property of an Adams

street man. About 200 empty bottles, bearing its trade-mark, were found near the stills.

The house to which the barn is attached is tenanted by a family whom the police do not connect with the seizure. When members of the household were questioned this morning they denied all knowledge of illicit undertakings.

kind held in higher esteem in Europe. Henry S. Tomer and Miss Esther Day will present, "A Very Bad Cold," which was adapted from a startling story written by Kenneth Harris. Inasmuch as Mr. Tomer and Miss Day are seasoned players, their act should "go over" with snap.

Billy Head is a breezy monologist, who comes from Augusta, Ga., and who is proud of R. and Heras & Willis are "backyard entertainers." The picture feature is "Youthful Cheaters," a wholly modern production.

THE NEW JEWEL THEATRE

A fine brace of photo-play dramas have been secured for a one-day showing at the New Jewel Sunday. "Hands of Nara," a colorful Russian drama and "Ebb Tide," a story of the Pacific Islands, have been booked. Clara Kimball Young stars in "Hands of Nara," and a strong cast of Paramount favorites in "Ebb Tide." Shorter features will round out one of the finest bills shown locally, tomorrow.

THE ROYAL THEATRE

Four selected acts of vaudeville, two film screen stories and some shorter am attractions will constitute the entertainment at the Royal theatre tomorrow. Henry Hull will head a star cast in "The Last Moment," a mystery drama of exciting moments, while Dolores Costello in "The Hidden Light" will be the counter attraction. Shorter film attractions will round out this fine Sunday program.

NEXT WEEK'S OFFERING AT OPERA HOUSE

When George Broadhurst wrote "Bought and Paid For," he hewed a distinctive niche for himself in American drama. He has written a still greater play in "Wild Oats Lane," a dramatization of the tremendously popular novel, "The Fighting Parson." "Wild Oats Lane" will be the attraction of the Al Luntzinger stock players at the Opera House all next week. Tickets are now on sale.

"Wild Oats Lane" is a marvelous blending of romance, laughter, stirring drama and pathos. Tears and sunshine fill two hours and a half of as fine entertainment as the players have ever offered their friends here. In addition to that it carries a big, splendid American ideal that will be carried away when you leave the theatre. It gives you something to think about as well as an unusual afternoon or evening's entertainment.

The four central characters of "Wild Oats Lane" are "The Kid," which will be portrayed by Victor Browne; "Sweet Marie," which Miss Hazel Corinne will act, and "Father Joe," the greatest part that Mr. Malcolm Melend has ever had a chance to do, and "The Professor," a roll that will call for all the well known skill that Mr. Lloyd Sabine has at his command.

The Kid and Sweet Marie have been boy and girl sweethearts. Fate has thrown them apart and brought them together again. The Kid, a crook, wounded and hunting for "get-away money," Sweet Marie, a girl about ready to give up her life for her nearly broken heart. They meet at the study of Father Joe, the parish priest, a man of deep understanding and great humanity; a man who has won his way into the confidence of the people of "Wild Oats Lane."

Then into all their lives comes the "Professor," the black sheep brother of "Father Joe," the relentless, embittered man who has jumped prison.

For three swift moving, gripping acts the story moves onward, dealing with the struggle of the two young people to go straight, "Father Joe's" fight to help them despite the stumbling blocks thrown in his path by the "Professor," the story of the sacrifice of the boy, the girl and the priest, the story of the triumph of the good over the evil.

The manner in which the problem is worked out and final happiness won by all forms the balance of this absorbing play.

The demand for seats to "Wild Oats Lane" has been exceptionally large and Manager Ray Hoyt suggests that regular patrons of the house secure theirs before it is too late to get their favorite places.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Stock prices drifted rather aimlessly within narrow limits today's dull half holiday session of the market. Although several issues established new low records for the year, the general list stiffened somewhat after an early period of hesitation. Strength of Pacific Oil and weakness of Chandler Motors, which fell 2 points to a new 1923 low, were the outstanding changes in the industrial list. In the railroad group the strength of Delaware and Hudson was offset by the weakness of Hudson and "Nickel Plate." Trading was on a reduced scale because of the absence of a number of traders. The closing was steady. Sales approximated 250,000 shares.

Price changes at the opening of today's stock market were extremely narrow and irregular with trading quiet. United States East Iron Pipe Company, its recent advance, gaining 1 1/2 points, after a decline of 1 point, dropped 1 point and Chandler Motors, 3-4 to a new low record for the year, Kennecott Copper duplicated its previous low.

The market presented a spotty appearance in the first half hour with the general list inclined to sag in response to heavy offerings of the steel, motor and leather shares. Losses of a point or more were recorded by Gulf States Steel, the Southwestern and Chandler Motors and Central Leather preferred. The market was quiet for the remainder of the day, with a few strong spots. Demand for the new strong spots, Tauraday's final quotation in reflection of heavy selling of sterling to purchase French francs in London yesterday. Other exchanges were firm.

Tracks of N. Y. Central Slide Into River

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A landslide at Garrison, N. Y., which caused the main line east bound tracks of the New York Central Railway to slide into the Hudson river, was reported by the company here today. The landslide occurred last night, when traffic was light, at a point opposite West Point where steam shovels have been making an open cut out of what had been a double track tunnel. Traffic suffered only a temporary delay, the rail officials reported. East bound trains were being handled without interruption over extra tracks.

Earth Shocks Recorded at Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Earth shocks of moderate intensity were recorded between 1.46 and 2.00 a. m. today, on the Georgetown university seismograph. Father Tondorf, director of the observatory, was unable to estimate the direction or distance of the disturbance from Washington.

Food Situation Improves in Japan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—An almost continuous flood of relief supplies sent by the American Red Cross from funds recently collected throughout the country, is being received at Japanese ports and conditions in the earthquake zone are improving daily, according to cable advices to the Red Cross from Ambassador Woods at Tokio. With the food situation in Japan rapidly improving, the relief fund now is being used to supply urgently needed shelter and clothing.

French Aviator Killed in Glider Contest

LYMPNE, England, Oct. 13.—The French aviator Maneyrol, competing in the motor glider contests here, was killed today when the wings of his plane gave way under pressure of the wind. He was attempting to better altitude records established earlier in the day. Hundreds of spectators witnessed the accident. Maneyrol on a previous flight had reached an altitude of 10,000 feet, but the record did not stand very long, as M. Ergy and Hammersley a short time later reached 13,000 and 12,000 feet respectively. Just before they landed, Maneyrol took the air again in an endeavor to surpass his earlier performance.

Alleged Safe Cracker Wanted for Murder

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Edward Wilson, a chauffeur, was arrested here last night on a charge of cracking safes in a number of Boston stores. Today the police announced he also was wanted on a Brooklyn murder charge, and he was taken to the district attorney's office for questioning.

To Refer Belgian Reparation Plan

BRUSSELS, Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press) The Belgian government has invited the French, British and Italian governments to refer to the inter-allied reparation commission the Belgian reparation plan, submitted to the allied governments on June 6, last, to be used by the commission as a basis of a concrete plan of German reparation in the impending negotiations.

Hurlled From Auto to Her Death

SALISBURY, Conn., Oct. 13.—The body of Mrs. A. E. Edelman, 58, a domestic at an inn here, was found partly clad, on the Mount Royal road last night by Thomas Bonetti, a lumber contractor. Some feet away a small automobile truck was in the ditch. While officers at first thought the woman had been murdered because of a hole in the head and blood on the body, Medical Examiner Bissell finally gave the opinion she had died from a fractured skull and bruises on the body as a result of being thrown from the truck.

Gov. McCray's Bank Closed

KENTLAND, Ind., Oct. 13.—The Discount & Deposit State Bank of this city of which Gov. McCray was president until shortly before his financial difficulties became public, was closed today. Judge William S. Darroch, who succeeded the governor as president, said reorganization was contemplated.

Stresemann's Authorization Bill Adopted

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press) The Reichstag this afternoon adopted Chancellor Stresemann's authorization bill, giving him wide authority in dictating measures for economic reform. The vote was 316 to 24, with seven members abstaining.

DISAPPOINTING COTTON CROP IS HELD BIG CELEBRATION THE GREATEST SINGLE FACTOR IN MILL SITUATION

Wisdom Apparent in Attitude of Mill
Men Who Are Averse to Piling Up
Stocks—Monthly Cotton Receipts
Here Swell Proportionately With
Other Massachusetts Textile Centers

The shortage of raw cotton will be the main subject at the convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers which opens in Boston the last of the month. The question is how the world's cotton industry will face with 157,000,000 spindles installed but only enough cotton to keep less than 130,000,000 of them employed.

During the past two years the world has consumed 41,000,000 bales and has produced only 31,000,000 bales. In this brief space world supplies have been drawn on to the extent of almost a full American crop. More cotton than ever will be planted for next year's crop but this year's crop production will not exceed 13,000,000 bales if it reaches that point. To keep 175,000,000 spindles running on a normal basis between 22,000,000 and 23,000,000 bales is required.

To Stimulate Production
The chief action on the subject is likely to be the taking of steps to stimulate crop production both in America and abroad. This year's production as shown by the above figures, and they are from W. Irving Bullard of Boston president of the association, is far insufficient for world requirements. An effort will be made at the convention to determine a manner by which manufacturers may adjust themselves to the present situation.

The advance and fluctuating price of raw cotton is attributed by many as the chief reason actuating the recent Amoskeag shutdown. Government officials close to the textile situation, according to word from Washington, believe the real reason to be lack of orders. Many folks believe the shutdown was caused by the failure of Amoskeag employees to favor the employee representation plan, pet scheme of the management, which was defeated two weeks ago by ballot.

There are any number of conjectures regarding the shutdown and no definite well-founded statements, other than what has been said by Amoskeag officials.

Condense Present Containment

Next year, a presidential election year is looked forward to hopefully.
All concerned in the present textile situation will be contended to go on through the remainder of the calendar year about as is. By wise ones the present containment policies are considered as well-advised, the creation of a better market for next year being the more assured. A big demand for summer wear and sport goods is looked to while all signs point to the best heavyweight season since the war.

It is held essential by some authorities that the mills at this time should continue their policies of running con-tainedly on orders and avoiding the piling up of excess stocks. This is because the cotton supply will not balance consumption if stock piling is resorted to. By refraining from piling up stock mills will go a long way towards helping to relieve the possibility of an acute cotton shortage.

Cotton Receipts Improve

It was only a few years ago that we had a 15,000,000 bale crop as against the present government production of 11,000,000 bales. With the resultant supply of raw materials far in excess of needs it did not make much difference what the mills did with it. Because of the low cotton costs stocks were run up then that many mills have hardly completed liquidating. If this cotton were taken with this year's crop prohibitive prices, due to the difference in the yield, would cripple business immensely.

A slight improvement in the total receipts of cotton at Lowell and the other four big mill cities of New England is noted for September, the figures totalling 32,408 bales as against 22,309 bales for August. They also compared favorably with the September receipts of the previous season, which were 32,341 bales, but are below the figure for the same month in 1921 which was 48,490 bales.

Lowell Shows a Gain

Receipts at Lowell last month totalled 5561 bales against 5016 bales for the previous month and 12,050 bales for September of 1922. The September receipts at Lawrence were 1917 bales as against 2835 bales for August and 868 bales for September receipts of 1922. Totals for the season for Lowell, Lawrence, Manchester, New Bedford and Fall River show 23,309 bales were received in August and 32,608 in September of this year as against 35, 346 and 33,841 for the same months of the year preceding.

Receipts last month at Fall River totalled 11,820 bales, an increase of 6,171 bales over the August arrivals, and compared with 10,002 bales received during September, 1922. At New Bedford last month a total of 12,957 bales were received, 4079 bales by rail and 8,848 bales by boat. Of the 8,848 bales received by boat, 5,102 bales were for destinations outside of New Bedford, only 2,746 bales being for local consumption.

New Bedford Increases

This with the rail receipts, amounts to 6,525 bales for the month. In addition, about 2,500 bales of Egyptian have been brought over the road by motor trucks, this cotton being from Boston spots of old crop. The total receipts at New Bedford last month showed a gain of 5,772 bales over the arrivals during the previous month, and compared with receipts of 9,911 bales during the same month last year.

At Manchester, 243 bales of cotton were received during September, compared with 2,444 bales in August and with 100 bales during September of 1922.

society, Mazzini's band of Lawrence led the parade with the Columbus society and the St. Anthony de Padua society following. The chief marshal was Frank Zahbo, and he was assisted by Dominick Bernadini, Ferdinando Dorezo, Tullio Carnachia, and Matteo Sacco. At 3 o'clock the command to march was given and the marchers moved down Union, Gorham, Central, and Middlesex streets to the hall.

At the hall the first half hour was given over to a concert by the Lawrence band. Following the concert
Mr. Zahbo called the meeting to order and introduced, as the first speaker of the day, Dominick Bernadini, president of the Christopher Columbus society. In a short address Mr. Bernardini impressed upon the people the necessity of honoring Columbus and called on the representatives of Columbus' race to be good Americans in thought and in action.

Professor Orlando Della Doria of Boston was the next speaker. Prof.
Della Doria is a graduate of Rome university and Naples university and is now studying at Northeastern university in Boston. His subject was
"The New Point in Civil Progress Reached with the Discovery of America by Columbus."

Professor Della Doria is one of the greatest Italian orators in this country and he held his audience thrilled from beginning to end with his story of Columbus, the scientist, Columbus, the beggar for ships; and Columbus, the discoverer. He traced the progress of the world since the discovery of the new world up to the present time and ended his address with a stirring appeal to the Italian people of this city to become good Americans and uphold the government under which they are now living and to hold to the ideals of Columbus.

ANNUAL PILGRIMAGE

BY THE C. M. A. C.

The annual pilgrimage to St. Joseph's cemetery by members of the C.M.A.C. will be held Sunday, Oct. 21.
Invitations have been sent to the six French speaking parishes of the city to attend the service and it is expected that if good weather prevails, several thousand will journey to the graves.

All members of the C.M.A.C. are to gather at the clubhouse in Pawtucket street at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and from there will march to St.
Joseph's church headed by a local infantry band. At the church solemn exercises will be held, the main alleluia of the church being reserved for the members. Rev. Louis Pinard, O.M.I., chaplain of the organization, is in charge of the church services and as far as is known the services will consist of Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament and a sermon by one of the parish priests.

Following the church ceremony, the members will be heard special cars at the square and proceed to the centery, where solemn exercises will be held on the Memorial lot. A sermon appropriate to the circumstances will be delivered. Prayers and taps will close the exercises.

The committee in charge of the event consists of: Renee Lefran, Leo Arthur, Arthur Genest, William Dunais and Gerald Stuart.

SATURDAY SHOPPERS SWARM DOWN-TOWN STORES IN RECORD-BREAKING NUMBERS

Clerks Find Busiest Day of Season Starts With Rush as Doors Open and Gains Momentum Throughout Day—Bargain Specials Advertised Friday Made Great Appeal

The biggest Saturday shopping throng that downtown Lowell has seen in several months arrived in the business section early this morning and did not leave until late afternoon.

The streets were lined with hustling shoppers throughout the day. In the banks from early morning lines of faithful depositors stood at the ready to make their regular weekly deposits. At the gas company office and other public utility concerns the corps of office help was hard pressed to take care of the great clientele. Hundreds of shoppers swarmed the various stores and clerks were kept at top speed almost from the moment the doors were swung open. Lunch hours were chopped a few minutes here and there and additional sales-folk put behind many counters. The buying was

COVERS YEAR'S TUITION SULLIVAN ABOARD BIG LINER LEVIATHAN

Brendan V. McAdams Awarded Fred C. Weld Harvard Memorial Scholarship

The Lowell Harvard club announced today the award of the Fred C. Weld memorial scholarship for 1923 to Brendan V. McAdams, son of the late Dr. James P. McAdams. It covers a year's tuition.

Brendan McAdams was graduated from Lowell high school in 1921, but returned in 1922 for post graduate work. He entered Harvard this September. Between the years 1917 and 1920 he was at Exeter where he was prominent in athletics, but his greatest prominence in the world of scholarship came during his senior and post graduate years at the local school where he played on the football, basketball and basketball teams and was captain of the last named. He also was a member of the chess club and Greenhills debating society. At present he is a member of the Harvard second team football squad and will be one of the trial horses for the "varsity" all season.

The announcement of the award will be received with pleasure by the many people in Lowell who have interestedly followed the boy's progress so far.

SISTINE CHAPEL CHOIR TO TOUR AMERICA

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Absent from the immediate jurisdiction of the pope for the second time in 16 centuries, the Sistina Chapel choir of Rome will arrive on the Conte Verde today for a tour of the United States.

There are 44 singers in the choir for this tour. It is composed of ecclesiastical chorists of the chapel, "scholae" and "fidenti" or under-studies. Monsignor Rella, Maestro of the choir in Rome, will accompany them.

The choir will make its first appearance in America at Carnegie hall next Thursday night, clothed in all the many hued ecclesiastical robes in which it sings at important papal functions. The program will include such age-old ritualistic compositions as Miss. Pope Marcell, the Improperia, the Miserere and the Lamentations, all sung without accompaniment.

World Series Tied at Two All As Result of Yankees Victory Over Giants in Fourth Game

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press) Back across the muddy Harlem today came the New York Nationals and New York Americans to do battle in the fourth game of the 1923 world's series.

Awaiting at noon the appearance of the two teams, in the most crucial of this year's contests, were between 15,000 and 20,000 fans who completely filled the small cracker box bleachers and more than half of the reserved seats of the double decked grandstand. Several hundred of them stood in line part of the night and when the gates were thrown open, the bleachers were quickly filled.

It was the nearest approach to summer weather which had been vouchsafed the series. The sun was warm, but it had to penetrate layers of mist and murk that settled over the oval enclosure. Some of the optimistic bleachers sat in shirtsleeves.

A squad of Giants under the care of Coach Cox Doolan came on the field about a quarter after 12. The ballplayers went about their preparations listlessly and spent most of their time watching the comedians, Albrook and Schacht, chase the rain-bow.

Where the atmosphere on the opening day was gay with anticipation, that of the second day suffocating with listlessness and that of yesterday charged with the most unbalancing excitement that of today was heavy with foreboding. If an X-ray could have been used it would have revealed hearts shrouding sympathy and beating time to a dirge.

Even when a squad of Yankees came on at 12:20 there was no cheering. They began to toss the ball with all the appearance of grim determination in their faces. They didn't have the elasticity of yesterday or the buoyancy of the first day when the grandstand of the same lay unpecked in the lap of the Gods.

At 12:30 Wally Pipp, the Yankee first baseman, who was forced out of yesterday's encounter when he injured a sprained ankle, came to his club's dressing room to get into the game. He worked out with the team and when the game started he was at his old stand.

Strained Relations
There was an appearance of strained relations between the two teams, partly over the ninth inning episode yesterday in which the Yankees accused Frank Snyder, the Giant catcher, of tipping the bat of Aaron Ward, when Pitcher Neph threw over a ball on which the Yankee second baseman was called out. There was no jovial bantering, nor exchange of mutual expressions of admiration.

The Batteries
Scott and Snyder was announced as the battery for the Giants. Shawkey and Schang was announced as the battery for the Yankees.

First Inning
Yankees: Witt singled past Bancroft. Dugan popped to Snyder, trying to bunt. Babe fanned. Bancroft took Meusel's grounder and tossed the ball to Frisch at second and Witt was out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Giants: Bancroft flied out to Meusel. Groh popped to Ward. Frisch laced a single over Ward's head. Young singled into left, Frisch stopping at second. Meusel forced Young. Ward to Scott. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Second Inning
Yankees: Pipp singled over second base. Ward singled into center. Pipp going to second. J. Scott juggled Schang's sacrifice bunt and the bases were filled. Pipp and Ward scored on E. Scott's single to left. Schang went to third. Scott was knocked out of the box, the third Giant pitcher to be sent to the bench by the Yankee batsmen in the series. Ryan went into the box for the Giants. Shawkey up, Schang scored on Shawkey's sacrifice fly to Stengel. Scott held first. Witt got a knock at into left and Scott scored. It was a two-base hit for Witt. Groh took Du-

Third Inning
Yankees: Young hit off Scott, 3 runs, one hit, no errors. Giants: Young got a Texas leaguer into center field. Shawkey threw out Meusel at first. It was no sacrifice. Young went to second. Stengel singled into left. Meusel making a beautiful stop and compelling Young to return to second. Kelly flied out to Ruth. Young going to third on the catch. Stengel held first. Snyder forced Stengel. Dugan to Ward. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning
Yankees: Schang smashed a slow ball over the middle section for a single. Giants: Young got a Texas leaguer into center field. Shawkey threw out Meusel at first. It was no sacrifice. Young went to second. Stengel singled into left. Meusel making a beautiful stop and compelling Young to return to second. Kelly flied out to Ruth. Young going to third on the catch. Stengel held first. Snyder forced Stengel. Dugan to Ward. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning
Yankees: Shawkey singled past Groh. Witt sacrificed. Snyder to Kelly. Dugan flied out to Meusel. Ruth hit a ball that was near inside fair territory. It would have been a homer. Ruth struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors. Giants: Ward took Bancroft's hit, smash and threw him out. Groh sent a long fly out to Meusel. Ruth made a nice catch of Frisch's short fly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Sixth Inning
Yankees: Meusel fouled out to Kelly, who made the catch near the grandstand. Pipp flied out to Snyder, who also made a good catch. Ward lined out to Frisch. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning
Yankees: Schang smashed a slow ball over the middle section for a single. Giants: Young got a Texas leaguer into center field. Shawkey threw out Meusel at first. It was no sacrifice. Young went to second. Stengel singled into left. Meusel making a beautiful stop and compelling Young to return to second. Kelly flied out to Ruth. Young going to third on the catch. Stengel held first. Snyder forced Stengel. Dugan to Ward. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning
Yankees: Jonnard went in to pitch for the Giants. The stands went wild when Dugan came to the plate, cheering him for his one-handed catch. Groh walked on four pitched balls. Frisch fouled out to Pipp who limped as he ran to make the catch. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Inning
Yankees: Barnes went into the box for the Giants. Schang fanned. Groh threw out Scott. Pennock struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Tenth Inning
Yankees: Young got a long hit into right field for a home run. Ward robbed Meusel of a hit, throwing him out at first. Cunningham batted in place of Stengel. Cunningham whiffed, missing a wide curve. Kelly sent a long fly to Witt. One run, one hit, no errors.

Final score: Yankees 8, Giants 4.

TRAFFIC CONDITIONS AT WORST TODAY

No better exemplification of the need of improved traffic conditions downtown could be afforded than the jam which occurred in Central street between Market and Warren streets at just 11 o'clock this forenoon. Four solid lines of pleasure cars and automobile trucks were moving toward the postoffice when they encountered toward the square. The result was an absolute blockade and nothing moved for seven minutes. Just at a time when the street railway company was making every effort to provide transportation for the noon hour, several of its cars were caught in the jam and were thrown 10 minutes off schedule.

Biggest Liquor Raid Ever Made in Lowell Results in $8000 Seizure

A sensational early-morning seizure of over $7000 worth of re-distilled alcohol, and two stills with a valuation of $500 each, was made today by Sgt. Winn and Officers Liston, Leachey, Cooney and Morie of the liquor squad, the confiscation taking place in a large barn in the rear of 145 Rutland road, at four o'clock, after an all-night vigil by Officers Liston and Leachey.

Shortly before noon this morning George Manos of Common street put in an appearance at the police station, accompanied by his counsel, Attorney George Tovey, and Manos claimed he was the owner of the still and the contents seized by the police. He was taken before Judge Enright and pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal keeping. Manos

DUESSELDORF, Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Duesseldorf was thrown into a state approximating anarchy today by throngs of desperate unemployed workers who during the early morning hours began a campaign of systematic plundering. The pillaging started in the suburb of Oberlik during the night and spread to various parts of the city when the plunderers found themselves virtually unopposed.

OIL TRUCK TURNS TURTLE MANY MARKED FOR DEATH

Hits Track Welder in Effort to Avoid Collision With Trolley Car

Shortly after two o'clock this afternoon, a Standard Oil tank truck, operated by Daniel Burke, in attempting to avoid collision with an electric car at the corner of Chelmsford and Westford streets, swerved and turned turtle, striking John Dowd of West Sixth street, an employee of the street railway company, who was engaged in welding the tracks at this intersection.

Dowd sustained several painful cuts about the forehead and face and was taken to St. John's hospital in a passing machine. The injuries are not thought serious.

Although the truck was slightly damaged, the driver and his assistant, William Shea, were uninjured. The truck was righted and proceeded.

MANY IMPORTANT FOOTBALL GAMES TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Now that the season is well started, muscles hardened and formations working smoothly, the gridiron college football teams which go into action today are expected to show more definitely of what material they are made. The stiffest battle of the east probably will be between Army and Notre Dame in Brooklyn.

Harvard will meet Middlebury, which last week tied Union. Yale will come up against the University of Georgia, and Princeton will meet Georgetown. Of these three the stiffest battle is expected to be between Yale and University of Georgia. The Georgians scored a 20 to 6 victory last week over Oglethorpe.

Among the other good games scheduled are Wesleyan against Columbia. Syracuse against the University of Alabama. Annapolis against West Virginia. Wesleyan, Dartmouth against Lowell Textile and Tufts against Bates.

A New York state Cornell will meet Williams. St. Lawrence will play Hobart and Union will meet Amherst. In Pennsylvania, Pennsylvania will meet Swarthmore. Lafayette will meet Frank and Marsh. Pittsburgh will play West Virginia, and Washington & Jefferson will come up against Brown.

WILLIAM A. GRAHAM'S FATHER IS DYING

The chamber of commerce and Lowell police have been requested to help locate William A. Graham, a locomotive engineer who worked in Lowell mills during 1916. His father is dying at his home in Springfield and desires to see his son before the end if possible.

Requests that efforts be made to locate him are from C. H. Evans, 435 Court Square building, Springfield, who says Mr. Graham while here resided at 27 High street. Efforts to locate him at that address or to find persons in the neighborhood who might remember him have proved futile. Officials of the locomotive local here will be asked to aid in finding Mr. Graham.

Plans for Deliberate Slaying of Prominent Residents Charged

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Oct. 13.—Plans for the deliberate slaying of prominent residents of Coos county with their families, were laid by Arthur Covell, 47, a cripple, famed as an astrologer, according to his reported confession to authorities here. With his 16-year-old nephew, Alton Covell, he is held in the county jail after indictment on a murder charge in connection with the death of Mrs. Fred Covell, Sept. 2 last.

FINED $300 ON LIQUOR CHARGE; REARRESTED

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Oct. 13.—Dann F. Wilton, 38, of Worcester, Mass., a travelling salesman who was arrested here last Saturday, after two months of whiskey and two quarts of champagne and some straw confiners, had been found in his automobile in the federal garage, pleaded guilty in the municipal court this forenoon to possessing liquor illegally and paid a fine of $300 and costs imposed by Judge Arthur P. Carpenter. Wilton was then arrested again and turned over to Police Captain Irving G. Hussey of Haverhill, Mass., on an indictment charging him with fraudulently obtaining an endorsement in connection with a loan. He left with Capt. Hussey by automobile for Lawrence, Mass.

LOWELL VETERANS AT BOXFORD REUNION

About fifty Lowell YD veterans who served in Battery F, 102 Field Artillery, during the war attended the annual reunion at Boxford yesterday. About fifteen autos made up the conveyance which provided transportation. Approximately 3000 persons made up the attendance of veterans, their friends and their families. PAINS IN BACK?

Listen to What Mr. McCay Says About It.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"For several years I had been subject to severe pains in my back, which often became so intense that I was compelled to cease work for days at a time. I could hardly walk. I feared I was about to lose my health or experience a general breakdown. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets on Saturday night and in less than twenty-four hours all trace of pain had completely gone, and although ten weeks have now elapsed I have never felt the slightest return of the pain. COURT BLANCHE DE CASTILLE F. F. A.

The regular meeting of Court Blanche de Castille, F.F.A., was held at C.M.A.C. hall last evening with President Ida Fiedin in the chair. Initiation of a new member was held, the usual impressive ceremonies attending. Six applications for membership in the order were also received. Minutes of the last meeting were read and accepted. Reports of the various committees were submitted and also accepted. The question before the members last evening was the changing of the court's quarters, and it was unanimously voted that the court retain its present quarters. Under the present regulations, the court has access to the C.M.A.C. hall one evening during the course of the year, for entertainment purposes, and it was voted to hold a whist and entertainment party Thanksgiving week. The guard has received an invitation to give an exhibition in Nashua on Oct. 23, and the captain, Miss Ida Grenier, will hold regular drills, beginning this evening at 8:30 o'clock and continuing during the weeks previous to their scheduled appearance.

Thomas H. Elliott, real estate and general insurance, 61 Central street, corner Prescott, reports the following sales negotiated during the past week. On the 1st of Mrs. Nathan B. Hartford, Jr. of Arlington, Mass., conveyance has been effected of the modern apartment property at 31-33 Port Hill avenue. The house has two apartments of eight rooms and bath each. Land totalling 6341 square feet is conveyed in the transfer. The property is a portion of the estate of the late F. K. Brown. The grantees are Patrick M. Flanagan and Julia Flanagan, who purchase for both occupancy and investment.

In the Centralville section conveyance has been made of the residential property at 13 Dana street. The house is of one and one-half story type, and occupies land to the amount of 3350 square feet. The sale is negotiated on behalf of Peter Largay, the grantee being Bridget E. McNiff.

Final papers have been sent to record in the transfer of a building site situated on the westerly side of Duxbury avenue near the junction with (Highway) street. The lot has an area of 5891 square feet, with a street frontage of 50 feet. The sale is effected on behalf of Mary F. Winslow of Chelmsford, the grantee being Frank G. Palmgren and Caroline E. Palmgren.

In North Andover transfer of a large tract of land has been effected. The property in question is located on the westerly side of High street and totals in excess of fifty acres. The parcel has a most extended frontage on both High and Rogers streets, and is for the greater part free level land. This sale is effected on behalf of Bernard Kearney. The grantee is Walter S. Thompson of New York City, who plans an extensive development of the property.

In the Highlands section sale has been effected through this office of an exceptionally high-grade apartment property situated at 153-155 Sayles street, adjoining the corner of Westford street. The property has two apartments of six rooms and bath each, the heat being by steam. It is practically new, and modern to the last detail throughout. Conveyance is made on behalf of Mrs. Dennis J. Cooney, the purchasers being Alva F. Reynolds and William M. Reynolds.

Perspiration depends on the circulation of the blood. The body not only requires nourishment from the blood for cell growth and repair, but also demands the separation and elimination of waste which cannot be converted into blood and which must be thrown off daily in the normal healthy person. Perspiration is a continuous process, invisible during periods of inactivity or sedentary life. Better condition of play, exercise or work, even in middle age or infirm adults, which will promote a healthy circulation and convey an abundance of blood to the glands of the skin, is desired for increased perspiration. Physicians of the present day are well aware that the skin does not play the important part it was formerly supposed to perform in elimination. But it is a great cleansing agent and a sort of health barometer which clearly indicates a good circulation by normal perspiration. In addition to this activity, it is better than any medicine in the preservation of health and prevention of disease. It may be said to remove the cause of many disorders such as indigestion, fat excess and clogged glands and is a means of giving renewed strength and body tone. Perspiration assists the digestion by the promotion of a healthy appetite. The exhalation and renewal of both body and mind are also aided to proper digestion. Good appetite insures a good supply of blood for the body. Good food makes good blood. The life stream of good blood circling through your body gives good skin activity by exercise and perspiration and so the wheels of body action are kept in healthy motion. NEW APPOINTMENTS TO OFFICE IN THE ELKS

Three new appointments to office in the Elks have been announced by Grand Exalted Ruler MacFarland. Most interesting to Lowell members is that of Michael H. Carron of Woburn, who will assume the duties of district deputy of the Massachusetts Northeast jurisdiction of Elks, including Lowell lodge 57. He succeeded William H. McSwaney of Salem. The other appointments are Hon. John F. Malley of Springfield, to the position of chairman of the judiciary committee of the grand lodge and St. John Conley of Beverly as a member of the residential committee of the grand lodge. Hon. Mr. Malley was formerly the collector of the port of Boston.

CARPENTERS' OUTING AT WILLOW DALE

The members of Local 49, Carpenters' union, held a well-attended and very successful outing at Willow Dale yesterday. A varied program of sports and entertainment were put on during the day and the main feature of the whole outing was a clam bake served by a local caterer.

The opening number in the sports program was a baseball game between the married men and the single men, the former winning by a score of 14 to 7. The winners in the other sports follow: 100-yard dash for young men—Vinal, first, smoothing plane; Molloy, second, jack knife. 100 yard dash for older men, first, Dickey, saw; second, Polson, rule. Pat men's race, first, Craig, pipe. Three-legged race, Richardson and Molloy, safety razor and box of cigars, respectively. Hop, step and jump, first, Carney, try-square; O'Brien, second, saw set. Broad jump, first, O'Brien, hitcock; second, Molloy, apron. Standing jump, first, O'Brien, hammer; second, McLean, set of files. Hammer throw, first, O'Brien, chisel; second, Burke, belt chain. Tug-of-war (three on a side), Molloy, O'Brien and Colburn, each a pair of Sweet-Orr pants. Ernest Craig Jr. and Thomas Linneott officiated as judges.

CADETS DEFEAT BUTLERS AND WIN CITY FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

BILLY MURPHY AWARDED DECISION OVER CHARLEY MANTY IN WHIRLWIND BATTLE

Record Crowd Sees Lowell Boy Outpoint Whaler After Ten Furious Rounds—Duffy Beats Adams in Semi-Final—Robinson Wins Over Robson in Classy Preliminary

Before the largest crowd gathered for a local fight in years Billy Murphy of Lowell and Charley Manti of New Bedford battled through ten furious rounds in the main event of the Moody club card in Crescent rink last night. Murphy was awarded the decision and the victory by a unanimous outburst of applause. Manti, too, received abundant recognition for his part in the hectic mugging.

The boys entered the ring after a slashing preliminary card and they were cordially greeted by their supporters. The majority naturally went there to root for the home boy, but the Whaler also had a number of well wishers on hand. It was announced that Murphy weighed 130 and Manti 125. They were in perfect physical condition.

Greyhound vs. Bullhog. Murphy appeared as the greyhound, while Manti typified the bull-dog. At the top of the fight they were off and after about one minute of dancing, fighting and empty maneuvering, without a blow being struck Murphy opened up the attack by a light right to the head. This was the signal for the crowd to begin and from this point on the fans were treated to a great exhibition of pyrotechnics.

Manti carried the fight to Murphy, the Whaler springing and maintaining a terrific pace. He proved a regular jumping jack in action, his dazzling speed, quick, rope bounciness and footwork being a treat to the eye. He used his hands to reach Murphy's jaw, making many wild and vicious lunges to the point, but the skilful, cool and cautious Lowellite gave him few chances to connect.

Manti kept his arms swinging like a windmill, varying his attack from head to body, but he found in Murphy skilful, moving target difficult to hit. Many times when Manti tore in with head down and with every bit of energy and strength he possessed in those 125 and 132 pounds hurled into a swing, Murphy would sidestep, forcing the Whaler to fall into the ropes. Manti placed his faith in a hammer, but he found little boxing, preferring to win by the knee route, rather than by the assembling of points. As the bout wore on Manti became desperate in his futile attempt to land a deciding blow and he became as wild as a cat, throwing back, blocked and virtually every turn the tremendous bull-dog did not despair but kept on there fighting all the way and while his endeavor for victory was in vain, his courage and his skilful stand brought him a host of admirers.

While Manti was carrying on his whirlwind offensive Murphy was playing a crafty and successful defensive game. He let Manti exhaust himself in coming in, but he would step aside, forcing the Whaler to miss and sometimes go right by him, all the while ripping in heavy apparatus and scoring points that proved sufficient to bring him the decision. While Manti did most of the leading and appeared the most spectacular Murphy did not waste a thing, working conservatively but effectively as round after round was told.

Being able to elbow close to the ring the writer observed closely the fight from an advantageous point and saw the remarkable inside "punch pumping" that Murphy unconsciously did. These blows coming with planned regularity had an important bearing on the fight. The boys had agreed previous to the bout to permit fighting with an arm free and to this consequence many points were scored by Murphy.

Despite the vigorous mugging the combatants showed few marks. Murphy cut Manti's lips and Manti raised a "mouse" under the Lowell boy's right eye. Manti also scored one point on the head and another on the body. Referee Cooper, the official taking a blow on the side of the head when he stepped in to break the fighters. The hurricane pace set at the beginning was maintained right up until the final bell and twice the battling was so ferocious and the applause so loud that the principals could not hear the bell.

It was a fight all the way, a repetition of the former meeting between this pair and the kind of a battle that is bound to pack 'em in any time they meet when the heat was over and the officials proclaimed Murphy the winner the crowd was in a frenzy. The great majority approved the finding. A minority, however, many of whom were from New Bedford, did not take it so kindly.

Duffy Beats Adams. The semi-final between Johnny Duffy of Lowell and Babe Adams was a fine number. It went the distance, eight rounds with Duffy being awarded the first preliminary. The first preliminary between Larry Robinson of Cambridge and Bill Robson of Madden was a rough and tumble affair, but never seen here. There was action in every round with each giving and taking much punishment. Robinson's verbal proved the winning of Robson, but the latter went down fighting.

Vigorous applause was accorded both performers. The second preliminary between Herb McDonald of Lynn, proved no match for Kid Ryan of Lynn and after a little more than two minutes of fighting "black" cried enough.

Manchester High Too Championship Game Much for Lowell. (Special to The Sun.) MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 12.—The Manchester high school eleven rode over Lowell high to the tune of 39 to 0 here yesterday, breaking the record of the ball too much and the line refused to hold for punts.

Lowell started off right by holding Manchester for downs and forcing the team to punt. But the Manchester team that the humbling started and Manchester recovered the ball on Lowell's three-yard line. One rush put the ball for a touchdown. The other two were made before the period ended, on straight line punting, interspersed with a couple of end dashes by Brock and Gray.

The summary: MANCHESTER. Stone, 10; Russell, 10; Connell, 10; ... (names and scores) ...

8000 See Cadets Beat Butlers in Brilliant Gridiron Battle

THRILLING PLAY IN YESTERDAY'S CHAMPIONSHIP FOOTBALL GAME AT ALUMNI FIELD

Thicketed with championship aspirations, the O.M.L. Cadets and the Butler A. A., representing the city's best in the world of amateur football, entertained an excited gathering of 8000 spectators at Alumni field yesterday afternoon, the Cadets getting the jump on their rivals and winning the hectic contest by the score of 12 to 7—their compensation for a rigorous, unmitigated and almost superhuman campaign of attack against a surprising zone of defense on the part of the conquered but fighting delegation from Upper Goshawk street.

Never has football fandom in this city witnessed such a spirited contest. Those who were fortunate enough to view the two championship battles of last year were almost unanimous in their opinion that enthusiasm then displayed was practically impossible of repetition. But those fans apparently forgot that the friendly alienation of affection between the two contending teams still remained for settlement before a football tribunal; and yesterday's situation, at times embarrassing and perplexing for both sides, was the inevitable outcome.

To the victor belongs the spoils and to the Blue and White uniformed members of the O.M.L. Cadets, each and every one of them fighting with a spirit which was invincible, belongs the Frank Richard trophy, emblematic of the coveted championship. They won because they charged magnificently, reeled off a few 50-yard sprints and seized forward passes promiscuously. For the past few weeks, the Cadets were drilled in the fundamentals of the game by Brother Herman, C.E.X. of St. Patrick's, and yesterday's brilliant struggle resulted in a regular Cadet carnival.

Many Thrilling Plays. The massed Cadet rosters who saw "Blind" Curran grab a forward pass from Johnny O'Connor and race away for the Butler goal with Irving Loucraft in hot pursuit, will never forget the thrill. Nor will they fail to remember the determined way which "Blind" Curran, one of the greatest line-backers in the city, took the same ball over the Butler line for the first Cadet touchdown of the bitter controversy. Again, and perhaps the greatest, was the 60-yard dash of Johnny O'Connor in the third frame, the best back accepting a Butler kick-off, eluding an entire team of eleven red-jerseyed athletes and kicking a touchdown. It was the uprightness for the deciding tally of the game. A glance at the Cadet line-up reveals their several other stars.

Previous to the commencement of hostilities there was but few conceding the Butlers an outside chance to win. The old standbys, however, the fans who saw the team in practice on the old fair grounds and the Cadets who saw the team in practice on the old fair grounds, were not so sure. The Cadets' indomitable fighting spirit, gave vent to their inner feelings and optimistically held forth expectations of victory. Their judgment came very near being vindicated at the end of the first quarter when the field in the first quarter and held the Cadet Cadet backfield to a standstill and continued to hold during the entire four quarters. The Cadets' line, however, was a team unexcelled for its qualities of staying in and taking it, even against great and overwhelming odds. Ever alert and ready to spring, they kept the Butler line wrapped around the ball, while the lighter but determined line repulsed the charging backs and made their cracks at the frontier ineffectual and small.

Butlers First to Score. Capt. Irving Loucraft, who judiciously warbled the signals for the losers, started a concerted drive for the enemy goal posts in the second quarter, and with Britton, Conway and Rogers alternately carrying the ball, the 3-yard line was reached and the first heroic attempt at a touchdown made. It was Loucraft who humiliated the Cadets at this juncture when he placed the leather over the final chalk mark, the first score of the afternoon. Three minutes later the Butler quarterback "Blind" Curran, on the third time, he provided the Butler cheering section with an opportunity to shout when he was tackled in the bottom of the field, heaped-up players with the ball safely tucked in his arms across the Cadet fortresses. To add to his act, he looped the uprightness with a pretty drop-kick for the point after touchdown, giving the Goshawk strikers an advantage of seven large points.

But a football game consists of four periods. Recovering from the setback, the Cadets proceeded to turn the Butler line in their direction and they got the breaks to help them do it, only after the most stubborn form of defense, in which Lee and J. McMahon played a conspicuous part, did Curran, Loucraft and J. McMahon get off to the points that snatched victory from the Butlers and yielded it to the soldiers. Aside from the interesting pastime, the record gathering was treated to several other sensations. Between the halves, the followers of both teams snake-danced around the field, the Butlers being led by a neatly blanketed horse. Original cheers reverberated throughout the enclosure, each contingent vainly endeavoring to out-do the other in volume and in style.

After the kick-off in the second half, the intense rivalry was momentarily forgotten, as the players, fans and officials stood with bared heads and in solemn silence in memory of the late George Bushy, former star Cadet footballer, who was killed while at work last summer. This reverential act was sponsored by Percy Walsh, manager of the Butlers and showed that the enmity between the teams exists only when the players are out there battling on the gridiron.

First Period Scoreless. To begin with, Danny O'Connor got off one of his copyrighted punts and after successive digs at the line, the Butlers returned the punt. The first part of the period was featured by the recovery of fumbles by Sullivan and Lawton of the Butlers, who appeared to be having the better part of the struggle in the commencement activities. They were unable to puncture the zone of defense, however, and Rogers acted wisely in kicking the ball to the other side of the danger mark. J. O'Connor took the boot and recovered, allowing J. McMahon to fumble, the Butlers likewise fumbled the ball and Johnny Murphy was on it in a jiffy.

As the ball nee-sawed back and forth with no appreciable gains, D. O'Connor punted to Conway, who was promptly downed by Arthur Lemoin, one of the fast forwards on the Cadet juggernaut. O'Brien went in for a postaler here and Britton took the place of Lawton. O'Connor tried a punt, but the flying sphere was blocked by an alert Butler line-backer and the ball rebounded back towards the goal post. Luckily Dan O'Connor recovered it in the three-yard strips, where he was dumped by Lee McMahon by means of a nifty tackle.

Lowcraft Registers. In accordance with the rules, the scene of play was removed to the other extremity of the field at the beginning of the second period. On a centre rush, Lowcraft advanced the object two yards, but a five yard penalty for an off-side offence took the ball back. Britton retrieved two yards on a jostle through left guard and added four more on one of the famous Butler "V formation" signals. Lowcraft knew his hit something when he collided with Courquin on a scamper through right guard, but he deposited the ball on the Cadet two-yard mark and made O'Connor embarrassed for the wearers of the Blue and White. A fusillade of Butler straw bats and other paraphernalia ascended into the air when the referee's whistle blew with the snappy Butler quarterback safely entrenched across the line. Lowcraft, after three repeated plunges at the formidable line before him, was finally rewarded with the first touchdown of the game. He easily executed the drop-kick for the point after touchdown and his team was leading by a 7 to 0 count. Long forward to Curran.

To the tune of the familiar "Yes, We Have No Bananas," the Butlers once more assumed their positions on the field. An exchange of punts finally found Dan O'Connor scrambling through centre for a seven-yard gain and later getting off a sensational forward pass to "Blind" Curran, who sprinted over past the Butler line. Then ensued a nip-and-tuck race between Curran and Lowcraft, with the Butler goal as the objective. Curran ran hard, but Lowcraft ran harder and nailed his man after a jump of much yardage, the ball resting on the 10-yard line when the whistle blew. Trovella then leaped to fame by carrying the oval across the barrier for a Cadet score. O'Connor failed to kick the point after and the Butlers were still leading by a scant one-point margin. It was to J. McMahon that the man responsible for the blocked kick on O'Connor's try at the posts.

Play resumed, Courquin was called into the Cadet backfield, but the anticipated forward pass failed to materialize. J. O'Connor making a futile stab at the line, D. O'Connor's next boot disturbed the 20-yard chalk-line. Lowcraft receiving and juggling the ball for a brief moment, Rogers returned the punt and the Cadets entered for their famous lock-step, which proved a fizzle, Rogers being tripped for a loss. The second time it worked with a forward pass via Lawton Curran taking a short aerial over the Butler line. Chase went in for Courquin and the first half closed shortly afterwards.

Second Half Yields Cadet Breaks. McMahon was the only new face in the Butler lineup when play was resumed, while the Cadets presented Toohy, McKinstry and Taplin. The Butler played a pretty game during the remainder of the contest. Courquin took the first punt and was downed by Lawton without gain. Toohy was unaware that he was scheduled to receive the next pass from the centre and as a result the ball went over his head. D. O'Connor recovered it and ran 40 yards before being tripped. Toohy then added seven more around the Butler left end, but O'Connor was forced to punt out when his team failed to find unattended holds in the opposing line. It was at this juncture that the Cadets got perhaps the biggest break of the game. Conley of the Butlers touched the ball and then allowed it to get away from him. Brodeur fell on it for the Cadets. The Butlers showed unusual staying powers by holding the Cadet backfield on the three-yard line and preventing another touchdown. On four successive downs, the Cadets failed to bullet through and O'Connor resorted to the unsuccessful expedient of a forward pass. It was grounded and the ball returned to the 20-yard mark with the Butlers again in possession. John O'Connor runs 60 yards. And then, at this dramatic juncture, Rogers' dexterous toe got off a long and beautiful punt to the Cadet 40-yard stripe. The leather took one neat bound and rested in the waiting hands of Johnny O'Connor. The crack Cadet back had been unable to do anything all afternoon, but his opportunity had come at last and he seized it with a vengeance. Wiggling his way through a broken field, he dashed for the Butler citadel with the speed of a fugitive and planted the ball behind the goal for the second Cadet registration. It was the most thrilling performance of the day and cast consternation into the ranks of the Butlers, and joy in the hearts of the Cadets, as it proved the margin of victory when the final toll was taken.

An interchange of punts was negotiated during the remainder of the game, the Butlers making a final and desperate try for a tie score and a possible win in the last few minutes of play, when they had the ball within scoring distance, only to have their hopes dashed by a magnificent play by the sound of the concluding whistle.

Senior: Cadets 12, Butlers 7. Touchdowns: Lowcraft, Trovella, J. O'Connor. Point after touchdown: Lowcraft. Referee: Horlberry. Umpire: John Neeson. Head linesman: Arthur Lynch. Time: Four 15-minute periods.

LOWELL SAILORS HOME ON LEAVE

Walter P. Bryan of 123 East Merrimack street and Arthur G. Welsh of 35 Andover street, both of whom enlisted in the navy August 3, are at home on a 10 days' leave. At the expiration of their leave, next Tuesday, they will return to Newport, where they will be shipped to the western coast, where they will go on duty with the Asiatic squadron. As this squadron is booked for a trip to China this winter, it is quite probable that the Lowell boys will visit the Orient.

William Tully, of 57 George street, who enlisted at the same time as Bryan and Welsh, is also home on leave and he will go to the electrical school at Hampton roads at the expiration of his leave. A competitive examination for attendance at this school was held recently and Tully received the highest mark.

During the past week John A. McDonough of 238 Appleton street resided at the local navy recruiting office for duty as a seaman, first class on board the U.S.S. Shawmut, and Glenn Ducharme of Bedford enlisted as a dreamer, third class.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE. WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—It took more real generosity to outlaw the saloon than it will to halt the law breakers. Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, declared in an address today at the citizenship conference called by the Federal Council of Churches on the question of prohibition enforcement.

HEATING PEDESTRIANS. A giant electric heater, of the "headlight" variety, mounted on a big auto truck, attracted the attention of shoppers in the business district today. Attended by a nattily dressed youth, the Simplex heater showed a surprising heating power.

CASEY, MIGHTY CASEY, AGAIN IN HEROIC ROLE AS HOMER DECIDES NEHF-JONES DUEL

Great Pitchers' Battle Won by Nehf of Giants, Thanks to Stengel, Whose Home Run Smash in Seventh Proved Only Run of Game—65,000 Fans, Greatest Crowd on Record, Sees Giants Win Second Game Out of Three Played

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—It often happens on the stage that an unknown actor, given a small part to play, does so well he makes the stars look like "supers." Casey Stengel, of Missouri, a weather beaten old veteran of the diamond, knocked and ruffed from bush to bush, was hoisted by the fates to the height of John McGraw, baseball's master mind, and given a job, a small part to play in a great drama.

After a long run, a successful season, the Giants won glory and entered the "Big Time," the world's series. Casey had played his small part well and was kept on. In the first day, the first game of the world's series, Casey, the Yankee, won fame. He made a great hit, a home run that won the game for the Yankees, and his name appeared in the bright lights.

On the second day Casey's small part was played by another player. Those who went to see shouted for Casey, but it was not Casey's day. Casey was home on the job yesterday and he made his great hit again, another homer that won the game for the Giants. It was the only run of a contest between two great pitchers, Jones of the Yankees and Nehf of the Giants, and Nehf, thanks to Casey, won fame.

The series now stands two games for the Giants, one for the Yankees. Babe Ruth having won the second game of the series, the Yankees have a great chance of home runs. But Ruth is a great star, his name has long been on the boards and his performance while great, is dwarfed by that of Stengel, the unknown, the new star.

Until the cue for Casey to take his place on the stage was given, the third game of the series had been a magnificent struggle between the pitchers. There was the marvelous control and the queer flutters and fadeaways of first.

New Ruling By Boxing Commission

BOSTON, Oct. 13.—The state boxing commission today made a ruling that hereafter any club or corporation seeking a license for boxing bouts which advertised bouts or placed tickets on sale before the license was granted would be refused a license.

WRESTLING MATCHES AT BUNTING PARK. Bill Rudy of Boston and Kid Roberts of Lowell wrestled for the mid-weight championship of New England at Bunting Park yesterday afternoon, and after 40 minutes of fast work Rudy pulled Roberts' shoulders to the mat and won the title.

This was the feature bout of a series staged under the auspices of Battery B, with Bob Johnson in personal charge. There was a good crowd present and all the matches were well enjoyed.

Tiger Parsall of Lowell and Charles Trevels of Haverhill wrestled 20 minutes to a draw.

A bout for the New England lightweight championship of New England Charley Marshall of Brunswick, Me., defeated Prof. Arthur Davis of Tulsa. Tiger Parsall, after his first bout, then staged a 15-minute exhibition with Kid Kourier of this city.

WORLD SERIES. The Board That Plays the Game and Plays It Right at the CRESCENT RINK, Hurd St. At 2 P. M. Every Day. Direct Wire from the Grounds. LADIES FREE. Except Saturday and Holidays.

CHEER AND JEER AT SCORE BOARD. So realistic are the details of the world series games depicted by the electric score board which is playing every game at the Crescent rink during the big baseball classic that fans cheer and jeer as the lights portray their "favorites" or "enemies" in action. Of all the players participating in the games none enjoys the popularity of Babe Ruth. When he hits a tremendous cheer goes up, when he is walked and burst of incoherencies is given for the slants. So contagious does the rooting become that fans forget they are looking at a reproduction and believe they are right in the grounds viewing the actual playing of the game. The board is a marvelous device, one that must be seen to be fully appreciated. Great crowds are attending all games, which start promptly at 2 o'clock.

Seven years ago Walter Clarkson won the golf championship of the Vesper Country club played over the old nine-hole course. Yesterday over the taxing 18-hole layout of which the club now boasts he reached the clubhouse again when he defeated Marshall Forrest, schoolboy crack, 6 up and 4 to play over the 36-hole route. The veteran's game was more brilliant yesterday than it was in 1916 and after the morning round of 18 holes had seen the pair to lunch on even terms Walter stepped out in the matinee engagement and quickly piled up a lead that the foot-stopping youngster could not whittle away.

Racing to the turn in 37 strokes in the afternoon Clarkson set sail for home with a four-hole advantage tucked away in his bag. Pars flattered from his woods and irons on the 10th and 11th and he was six up. Forrest prolonged the inevitable for a moment when he captured the 15th but when the 13th was halved Clarkson had him down to 11. A win for the old Harvard pitcher going across the creek gave him the crowd 5 and 4.

The play during the morning round during which Clarkson never was down and never more than 2 up at any stage fulfilled all prognostications of a tight match. Walter stood on 5, 17 tee with a two-hole advantage, but when Forrest laid an iron a few feet from the cup and holed for a par 3 and when he followed this effort with four perfect shots on the long 15th, he had squared the match in a sensational finish.

While Clarkson's sound game became more and more brilliant and deadly in the afternoon Forrest fell away from his championship stride and after a half on the first hole dropped the next three in rapid succession. That was the beginning of the end as Walter held and added to this advantage from that point on.

On seven of the outward nine holes in the afternoon Clarkson clocked off pars, on the third he was one over and on the fifth he was one under. Against this exhibition Forrest's game melted away and the four strokes he trailed him going out represented the hole-advantage the new champion piled up.

A fair sized gallery watched the match in the morning and nearly 100 men and women trudged over the fairways in the afternoon to watch the struggle.

British Turfman Predicts $100,000 Horse Race Will Be Postponed

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—J. R. Joel, widely known British turfman, predicted today before sailing on the Majestic, that the $100,000 international horse race scheduled for Belmont park next Saturday, would have to be postponed or cancelled because of the condition of Papyrus, the British Derby winner, who is expected to race against Zev, the American contender. Joel, who released Jockey Steve Donoghue, now on his way to this country, from a contract so that he might ride Papyrus, said he had abandoned his intention of witnessing the race because its sporting quality had been taken away by the inequality of the horses.

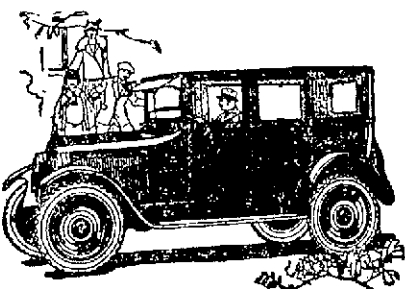

Papyrus, he declared, was under-trained, was in bad condition and would carry a greater weight than Zev.

ONLY FEW CITIES TO HEAR JERITZA

Maria Jeritza, the Viennese dramatic soprano, whose triumphal success at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York last season was one of the greatest operatic sensations of years, will appear in the Memorial Auditorium, Wednesday, Oct. 24, in a program of a nature that will best bring out her ability and voice. Mme. Jeritza's appearance in Lowell will be a treat not only for music lovers but also for those who love beauty and personal charm. BAD NEWS FOR LUDWIG

Fortune Teller's Story Caused Dracut Man to Abuse His Wife

Ludwig Stackelmann, who lives in Dracut, went to have a seance with a fortune teller and she told him that he was going to die and that his wife would remarry. The thought of his wife marrying another man was too much for Ludwig and he upbraided her for it, but, as she said, she could not convince him that such a thought never entered her head.

The prophesy of the seer, however, kept uppermost in Ludwig's mind, and he then began to beat up his wife, according to the story she told Judge Wright in district court this morning. The last assault, upon which she had him arrested, occurred Thursday night, she said.

Judge Enright sternly lectured the defendant for his queer behavior, and made it clear that if brought before the court again he would get a jail sentence. A suspended sentence of four months in the house of correction was imposed.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEMBERSHIP LUNCHEON

Reservations for the first fall membership luncheon of the chamber of commerce, to be held at 12:15 o'clock Wednesday noon, are being received in substantial numbers. As Liberty hall seats only about 200, luncheon guests and members have the privilege of bringing wives and guests to the meeting and it is confidently expected that the full quota will have been reached long before reservations close Tuesday evening.

Because of this, Secretary Wells asks that those intending to attend do not procrastinate in the matter of making reservations but attend to the matter at once. The speaker, Congressman Carroll L. Beedy of Portland, Me., was heard at the chamber's appreciation dinner last December. Since that time the chamber has been flooded with requests that he be invited here again. Congressman Beedy has returned from a European trip since his appearance here last December and it is expected that his message will be of great interest to every one in attendance at the dinner.

SEARCH FOR MURDERER

Police Hunt for Man Who Brutally Strangled New York Store Girl

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A systematic search covering several states and parts of Canada was launched last night by the police in an effort to run down the man who yesterday morning brutally strangled to death Estelle Phillips, whose body was found by a girl friend early yesterday in her furnished room in 57th st., with a towel knotted about her neck and her body showing signs of an attack and a struggle.

NICK ALTROCK TELLS HUG HOW TO BEAT GIANTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(By the Associated Press)—Nick Altrock, baseball's premier clown, had a bright idea after yesterday's game and imparted it to Miller Huggins, the Yankee manager. "Listen now, Hug," whispered Nick. "We just gotta win this series for the American league, and we can't do it with this bird Stengel busting around like he is. You know he can't hit left handed pitchers. Now here's the idea: Use Herb Pennock every day."

Arthur Nehf's victory over the Yankees yesterday was his third out of six starts in the series of 1921, 1922 and this year. In his first two attempts in 1921 he was defeated by Hoyt, but he defeated Hoyt in their third duel of that series, the eighth and deciding game. In 1922 he started the first game and was relieved by Ross Ryan, who received credit for a victory when the Giants rallied and won in the eighth inning. He won the deciding game of the series against Joe Bush.

Nease Stengel is modest about his home runs.

"Aw, gee," he said yesterday after the game. "A guy will meet me on the nose now and then."

Denishawn Stars in Egyptian Duet

In recent years dancing has been degenerating into a thing of more sensual appeal. Many a reproach has been laid at our own door on this account. But America with its usual vitality has been gradually emerging from the chaos of jazz and evolving an art of dancing essentially American in its form, though universal in its appeal.

A pioneer in this field is unquestionably Ruth St. Denis. As a girl she became imbued with the idea that every human emotion could be expressed in rhythmic motion, that it was possible to translate a mood, an episode, a story, into a sequence of beautiful attitudes and gestures. And following this idea she has cast off the shackles of formalities, the stiffness of classicism, the monotony of the Russian school, and has evolved an art, which in its versatility, racial variety and freedom from convention is amazingly American, and, therefore, universal.

Most of us have felt the seductive strains of a waltz, have felt the irresistible desire to swing with the strain. But only a genius like Ruth St. Denis could originate the visualization of the great basic works of master musicians. And only, thanks to her, can America claim supremacy in at least one form of art, which is being copied by the rest of the world.

Mrs. St. Denis and Ted Shawn will make their local appearance at the Auditorium on October 23. The public sale opened today. No telephone orders will be taken after the sale opens and reservations that have been made will be kept until Monday next.

GREENFIELD, Oct. 13.—George Fensiek, a Sunderland farmer, went to jail today rather than pay a $20 district court fine for failure to send his daughter Annie, a pupil of the sixth grade to school. The girl's teacher testified that Annie was absent from the opening of school on Sept. 4 until Sept. 12 and also from Sept. 21 to Oct. 5. Fred Welsh, attendance officer said she declared "she did not care for school or the district court." When Judge Field found Fensiek guilty today and imposed the fine the defendant said he would never pay it. He was taken to the county jail. A similar case occurred here two years ago when Rev. Walter Carroll, then pastor at Lyden refused to pay a fine after being found guilty of the same offense. After 36 hours in jail he paid and was released.

CONGRESSMAN ROGERS WORKING ON PLAN FOR AMENDMENT FORBIDDING CHILD LABOR

Nine States Are Among the Chief Offenders in Working Children Long Hours and Depriving Them of Opportunity to Get an Education—Senator Johnson to Keep Cows in Washington—Home to Be Provided for Women Veterans—Mrs. Coolidge Declines Tendered Honors

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Child labor laws, to be enacted under a constitutional amendment, will be pressed on congress the coming session, by Congressman John Jacob Rogers of Massachusetts who is working in co-operation with the children's bureau, and other great organizations, and who is also convinced he will have the support of the business men of the north, and possibly of other sections of the country, where child labor laws do not exist.

New England has beneficial laws even now, so it is not surprising that that section of the country is taking the lead in framing laws that must be observed in other sections, now lax as to proper care of children in the working field.

Nor is it strange that the prime mover in this great work is Mr. Rogers, who has long been identified with congressional legislation beneficial to women and children.

As ranking member of the great committee on foreign affairs, Mr. Rogers is precluded from membership on any of the committees having charge of remedial legislation, for a house member cannot hold a position on one of the so-called major committees, such as foreign affairs, and at the same time be a member of any other house committee. Notwithstanding this, Mr. Rogers has always been active in matters pertaining to industrial and immigration legislation and will be a strong leader in the proposed child labor bill, or amendment. In this he will have the united support of his New England colleagues.

In reply to a question by your correspondent this week, Mr. Rogers said: "I intend to press that measure the coming session. It seems pretty clear to me that a constitutional amendment is the only way to work out the situation. Congress has already enacted statutes, one based on the commerce clause and one on the taxing clause, but both have been declared unconstitutional by the United States supreme court." Mr. Rogers stated that he is now making a very thorough investigation of the situation throughout the country and will, at a near future date, be so fully armed with facts, that he believes he can show congress the need of such legislation and that it will be enacted.

Nine states now have more than 10 per cent of their children of ages ten to fifteen years, at work. These are: Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas. In those states literacy is above the average, and school attendance below the average.

Senator Johnson's Plans

Senator Magnus Johnson of Minnesota is just now holding the centre of the stage in all Washington dispatches. He is in Washington looking for a home for himself, Mrs. Johnson and a few of the children, leaving the eldest boys at home to take care of the farm. Mr. Johnson says he wants a place where he can keep a cow. As cows are rare luxuries in Washington it's a safe guess he will be rather popular. If he shares cream with his neighbors. The capital city has few if any attractive suburbs where cows can graze, and the colleagues of the Minnesota farm-bloc senator must depend on far away herds to supply their milk wants.

President Taft kept a fine Jersey in the White House grounds, but it grazed only in a secluded corner of the great White House lot. President Wilson had sheep grazing within a stone throw of the great pillared arched entrance to the historic mansion. But senators have as a rule, foregone the comfort of semi-farm life. But whether or not we all approve of Mr. Johnson's political ideas,

we must certainly approve of his proposed cow.

Would Give Coolidge a Chance

One of the first remarks made by the new Minnesota senator at his first interview with press gallery correspondents, was "Unleading hay is easier than being a senator." Commenting on President Coolidge and his possible candidacy for the presidency, Mr. Johnson said: "We ought to give him a chance to show up; he hasn't had time to turn round yet" all of which indicates there will be some senatorial talk, with a genuine local twang, when Mr. Johnson gets under way. Mr. Johnson remarked he wasn't in very good voice, but all the same the newspaper

Officer Leahy had been watching the premises for the past two nights in the hope of discovering the owner of the property, but as that individual failed to put in an appearance up to four o'clock this morning, it was decided to relieve the barn of its anti-Volsteadian contents.

Following the patrolman William Brennan on the way, the squad of officers, armed with a search warrant, prepared to investigate the interior of the innocent-looking structure. All doors and windows were securely bolted and it was necessary to use force to gain admittance.

Upon investigating the premises, the officers came across the biggest seizure of the year. Conveniently packed in wooden and cardboard boxes were several hundred 5-gallon, 2-gallon and 1-gallon cans, the removal of which required eight trips to the Market street station house, where the goods were deposited for safekeeping. Besides the vast product, two 100-gallon stills, one a regular mash still and the other a re-distiller with all the latest improvements and devices, were seized, together with a large quantity of copper coil, rubber hose, funnels, etc. As the stills have an estimated value of $500 each, the total collection would have a valuation of over $8000, a record in this city.

In the barn, at the time of the seizure, were two large trucks bearing registration numbers, indicating them to be the property of an Adams

street man. About 200 empty bottles, bearing its trade-mark, were found near the stills.

The house to which the barn is attached is tenanted by a family whom the police do not connect with the seizure. When members of the household were questioned this morning they denied all knowledge of illicit undertakings.

THE NEW JEWEL THEATRE

A fine brace of photo-play dramas have been secured for a one-day showing at the New Jewel Sunday. "Hands of Sorrow," a colorful Russian drama, and "Ebb Tide," a story of the Pacific Islands, have been booked. Clara Kimball Young stars in "Hands of Sorrow," and a strong cast of Paramount favorites in "Ebb Tide." Shorter features will round out one of the finest bills shown locally, tomorrow.

THE ROYAL THEATRE

Four selected acts of vaudeville, two fine screen stories and some shorter entertainment will constitute the entertainment at the Royal theatre tomorrow. Henry Hull will head a star cast in "The Last Moment," a mystery drama of exciting moments, while Dolores Costello in "The Hidden Light" will be the counter attraction. Shorter film attractions will round out this fine Sunday program.

NEXT WEEK'S OFFERING AT OPERA HOUSE

When George Broadhurst wrote "Thought and Paid For," he hewed a distinctive niche for himself in American drama. He has written a still greater play in "Wild Oats Lane," a dramatization of the tremendously popular novel, "The Picking Parson." "Wild Oats Lane" will be the attraction of the Al Luttinger stock players at the Opera House all next week. Tickets are now on sale.

"Wild Oats Lane" is a marvelous blending of romance, laughter, stirring drama and pathos. Tears and sunshine all two hours and a half of as fine entertainment as the players have ever offered their friends here. In addition to that it carries a big, splendid American ideal that will be carried away when you leave the theatre. It gives you something to think about as well as an unusual afternoon or evening's entertainment.

The four central characters of "Wild Oats Lane" are "The Kid," which will be portrayed by Victor Browne; "Sweet Marie," which Miss Hazel Corinne will act, and "Father Joe," the greatest part of which Mr. Malcolm McLeod has ever had a chance to do, and "The Professor," a roll that will call for all the well known skill that Mr. Lloyd Sabina has at his command.

The Kid and Sweet Marie have been boy and girl sweethearts. Fate has thrown them apart and brought them together again. The Kid, a crook, wounded and hunted for "see-away money," Sweet Marie, a girl about ready to give up because life has nearly broken her. They meet at the study of "Father Joe," the parish priest, a man of deep understanding and great humanity, a man who has won his way into the confidence of the people of "Wild Oats Lane."

Then into all their lives comes the "Professor," the black sheep brother of "Father Joe," the relentless, embittered man who has jumped prison.

For three swift moving, gripping acts the story moves onward, dealing with the struggle of the two young people to go straight, "Father Joe's" fight to help them despite the stumbling blocks thrown in his path by the "Professor." When when victory seems in sight, society points thumbs down at the boy and the girl. They have been crooks. They don't belong. At the same time, "Father Joe" faces the choice of the great sacrifice of unworthiness to his trust. He makes the sacrifice.

The manner in which the problem is worked out and final happiness won by all forms the balance of this absorbing play.

The demand for seats to "Wild Oats Lane" has been exceptionally large and Manager Ray Hyatt suggests that regular patrons of the house secure theirs before it is too late to get their favorite places.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Stock prices drifted rather aimlessly within narrow limits today's dull half holiday session of the market. Although several issues established new low records for the year, the general list stiffened somewhat after an early period of hesitation. Strength of Pacific Oil and weakness of Chandler Motors, which fell 2 points to a new 1923 low, were the outstanding changes in the industrial list. In the railroad group the stock of Delaware & Hudson was offset by the weakness of Atchafalaya and "Nickel Plate." Trading was on a reduced scale because of the absence of a number of traders. The closing was steady. Sales approximated 250,000 shares.

Price changes at the opening of today's stock market were extremely narrow and irregular with trading quiet. United States Steel Iron Pipe Company's recent advance, gaining 1 1/2 points, was offset by Atchafalaya, which dropped 1 point and Chandler Motors 3-4 to a new low record for the year. Kennecott Copper duplicated its previous low.

The market presented a pretty appearance in the first half hour, with the general list inclined to sag in response to heavy offerings of the steel, motor and leather shares. Losses of a point or more were recorded by Gulf States Steel, Standard Oil of Indiana, Auto Knitter and Central Leather preferred touched new 1923 lows. On the other hand, Delaware & Hudson and DuPont Chemical each up a point or more. The market closed strong, with the general list showing a slight advance. Thursday's final quotation in reflection of heavy selling of steel to purchase French francs in London yesterday. Other exchanges were firm.

DISAPPOINTING COTTON CROP IS HELD BIG CELEBRATION

THE GREATEST SINGLE FACTOR IN MILL SITUATION

Men Who Are Averse to Piling Up
Stocks—Monthly Cotton Receipts
Here Swell Proportionately With
Other Massachusetts Textile Centers

The shortage of raw cotton will be the main subject at the convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers which opens in Boston the last of the month. The question is how the world's cotton industry will fare with 157,000,000 spindles installed but only enough cotton to keep less than 100,000,000 of them employed.

During the past two years the world has consumed 41,000,000 bales and has produced only 21,000,000 bales. In this brief space world supplies have been drawn on to the extent of almost a full American crop. More cotton than ever will be planted for next year's crop but this year's production will not exceed 15,000,000 bales if it reaches that point. To keep 175,000,000 spindles running on a normal basis requires 29,000,000 and 25,000,000 bales is required.

To Stimulate Production

The chief action on the subject is likely to be the taking of steps to stimulate crop production both in America and abroad. This year's production as shown by the above figures, and they are from W. Irving Willard of Boston, president of the association, is far insufficient for world requirements. An effort will be made at the convention to determine a manner by which manufacturers may adjust themselves to the present situation.

The advancing and fluctuating price of raw cotton is attributed by many as the chief reason actuating the recent Amoskeag shutdown. Government officials close to the textile situation, according to word from Washington, believe the real reason to be lack of orders. Many folks believe the shutdown was caused by the failure of Amoskeag employees to favor the employee representation plan, but scheme of the management, which was defeated two weeks ago by ballot. There are any number of conjectures regarding the shutdown and no definite well-founded statements, other than what has been said by Amoskeag officials.

Condone Present Curtailment

Next year, a presidential election year, is looked forward to hopefully. All concerned in the present textile situation will be contented to go on through the remainder of the calendar year about as is. It is also one of the present curtailment policies are considered as a better market for next year, the more assured a demand for summer wear and sport goods is looked to while all signs point to the best heavyweight season since the war.

It is held essential by some authorities that the mills at this time should continue their policies of running entirely on orders and avoiding the piling up of excess stocks. This is because the cotton supply will not balance consumption if stock piling is resorted to. By refraining from piling up stock mills will go a long way towards helping to relieve the possibility of an acute cotton shortage.

Cotton Receipts Improve

It was only a few years ago that we had a 1,500,000 bale crop as against the present government prediction of 11,000,000 bales. With the resultant supply of raw materials far in excess of needs it did not make much difference what the mills did with it. Because of the low cotton costs stocks were run up then that many mills have hardly completed liquidating. If this year's crop is taken with this year's crop prohibitive prices, due to the difference in the yield, would cripple business immensely.

A slight improvement in the total receipts of cotton at Lowell and other four big mill cities of New England in the month of September, the figures totaling 32,605 bales, as against 23,309 bales for August. They also compared favorably with the September receipts of the previous season, which were 32,941 bales, but below the figure for the same month in 1921 which was 45,159 bales.

Lowell Shows a Gain

Receipts at Lowell last month totaled 3541 bales against 2914 bales for the previous month and 13,929 bales for September of 1922. The September receipts of Lawrence were 1947 bales as against 2522 bales for August, and 848 bales for September, receipts of 1922. Totals for the season for Lowell, Lawrence, Manchester, New Bedford and Fall River show 23,309 bales were received in August and 32,605 in September of this year as against 48,200 and 52,941 for the same months of the year preceding.

Receipts last month at Fall River totaled 11,639 bales, an increase of 8,171 bales over the August arrivals, and compared with 10,602 bales received during September, 1922. At New Bedford last month a total of 12,927 bales were received, 4079 bales in August and 8,848 bales received by boat, 6,102 bales were for destinations outside of New Bedford, only 2,745 bales being for local consumption.

New Bedford Increases

This with the rail receipts, amounts to 6,525 bales for the month. In addition, about 2,500 bales of Egyptians have been brought over the road by motor trucks, this cotton being from Boston spots of old crop. The total receipts at New Bedford last month of 12,927 bales, 2,772 bales over the arrivals during the previous month, and compared with receipts of 9,341 bales during the same month last year.

At Manchester, 243 bales of cotton were received during September, compared with 2444 bales in August and with 100 bales during September of 1922.

Street Parade and Mass Meeting by Christopher Columbus Society

The Christopher Columbus society of this city led the local celebration of Columbus day among the people of Italian birth, yesterday, sponsoring a street parade and a mass meeting in Hamilton hall, Odd Fellows building, with several out-of-town speakers as guests of the occasion.

The parade formed on Union street at the headquarters of the Columbus society. Mazzini's band of Lawrence led the parade with the Columbus society and the St. Anthony de Padua society following. The chief marshal was Frank Zabba, and he was assisted by Dominick Bernardini, Ferdinando D'Arzico, Tullio Carnachia, and Matteo Sacco. At 3 o'clock the command to march was given and the marchers moved down Union, Corbhan, Central, and Middlesex streets to the hall.

At the hall the first half hour was given over to a concert by the Lawrence band. Following the concert, Mr. Zabba called the meeting to order and introduced, as the first speaker of the day, Dominick Bernardini, president of the Christopher Columbus society. He introduced the people of the city, a short address Mr. Bernardini imposed upon the people the necessity of honoring Columbus and called on the representatives of Columbus' race to be good Americans in thought and in action.

Professor Orlando Della Doria of Boston was the next speaker. Prof. Della Doria is a graduate of Rome university and Naples university and is now studying at Northwestern university in Boston. His subject was "The New Point in Civil Progress Reached with the Discovery of America by Columbus."

Professor Della Doria is one of the greatest Italian writers in this country and he held his audience thrilled from beginning to end with his story of Columbus, the scientist, Columbus, the beggar for riches, and Columbus, the discoverer. He outlined the progress of the world since the discovery of the new world up to the present time and ended his address with a stirring appeal to the Italian people of this city to become good Americans and uphold the government under which they are now living and to hold to the ideals of Columbus.

Several other speakers were included on the program and spoke on the same subject. Following the completion of the address, dancing was enjoyed until late in the evening to the music furnished by the band.

August production of hosiery in all grades was approximately 40,660 dozen pairs greater than in July, reports from 25 identical hosiery establishments representing 37 mills indicate. These figures are taken from the regular monthly hosiery report of the bureau of census, department of commerce.

Of the total production there were 52,317 dozen pairs of men's full-fashioned, 1,704,157 dozen pairs of men's seamless, 522,534 dozen pairs of women's full-fashioned, 1,026,758 dozen pairs of women's seamless, 456,237 dozen pairs of boys' and misses' all styles, 151,287 dozen pairs of athletic and sport.

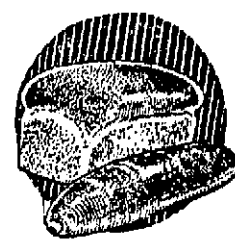

ANNUAL PILGRIMAGE BY THE C. M. A. C.

The annual pilgrimage to St. Joseph's cemetery by members of the C. M. A. C. will be held Sunday, Oct. 21. Invitations have been sent to the six French speaking parishes of the city to attend the services and it is expected that if good weather prevails, several thousand will journey to the grounds.

All members of the C. M. A. C. are in gathering at the clubhouse in Fawcett street at 1 o'clock in the afternoon and from there will march to St. Joseph's church headed by a local infantry band. At the church solemn exercises will be held, the main aisle of the church being reserved for the members. Rev. Louis Tachand, O.M.I., chaplain of the organization, is in charge of the church services and as far as is known the services will consist of Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament and a sermon by one of the parish priests.

Following the church ceremony, the members will board special cars at the source and proceed to the cemetery, where solemn exercises will be held on the Memorial lot. A warm appropriate to the circumstance will be delivered. Prayers and taps will close the exercises.

The committee in charge of the event consists of: Romeo Louzau, Leon Arbour, Arthur Genest, William Dumas and Gerald Stinard.

SUICIDE OF MAYOR FOLSOM

Death of Irvington, N. J., Executive Recalls History of Jean Valjean.

Erred in Youth, Paid Penalty, Made Good Only to Have Early Folly Brought to Life

IRVINGTON, N. J., Oct. 12.—The tragic story of a man who erred in his youth, paid the penalty and then set out to regain the respect he had lost, only to succeed and have his early folly once more brought to life, was unfolded yesterday when the prosecutor began an investigation into the motives that prompted the suicide on Sept. 26, of Mayor Edward R. Folsom of Irvington.

Mayor Folsom's life reminded those who heard its history of Jean Valjean.

It was in Hammondspoint, N. Y., that the story had its beginning. It was the age-old tale of wealth and poverty and love. Folsom's family was poor. The girl he loved was the daughter of the wealthiest man in the town and her father refused to accept the lowly youth as his son-in-law. The boy was desperate. He forged the wealthy man's name to several checks and later was caught and handed over to a bank.

His sentence was 10 years at hard labor in Auburn prison. But the late Theodore Roosevelt, then governor, pardoned him after three years had been served. The pardon was obtained when citizens of Hammondspoint, headed by the girl's father, signed a petition requesting the action.

Folsom and the girl were married; then, but they decided to move away and start life anew. They came to Irvington, where Folsom established a business, won his way into many friendships and prospered. He was elected mayor and his work in civic and church affairs was praised by all who knew him.

Then came the dark cloud that cast a shadow over the man who had erred in his youth. Someone this son says the prosecutor has his names who knew his past confronted him with the facts and demanded blackmail.

At his death it was believed the mayor had little of the fortune he had built up through hard work. It was said he had paid out $25,000 in the past 12 months alone to keep the secret. The blackmail began about three years ago.

And on Sept. 26, he died. At first it was believed he had died from an accidental overdose of a sedative, then it was learned he was a suicide. The revelation unfolded the fact of his life and his wife, who has been with him and knows of all his trials since he was released from prison, declares she knows those who took his fortune for his secret.

MEN AND WOMEN TAKE EXAMINATIONS

A civil service examination for applicants in the field service of the federal government as stenographers and typists was held at 9 o'clock this morning at city hall under the direction of Timothy J. Sullivan, examiner, with ten men and women taking the examination.

In connection with this examination, Albert H. Sparks, secretary of the local commission, announced that eligibles resulting from this examination will be offered positions within the community of all centers where vacancies exist. Consequently this will give a resident of Lowell equal opportunity with a resident of Boston for any government vacancy which may exist in Boston.

EXTRAORDINARY SALE OF THREE DWELLINGS AT PUBLIC AUCTION IN CHELMSFORD CENTRE

A THOROUGHLY MODERN TWO STORY BRAND NEW DWELLING. A STRICTLY UP TO DATE COTTAGE IN BUNGALOW STYLE. ALSO BRAND NEW; AND A FULL TWO STORY FINISHED HOUSE. ALL THREE BEING SITUATED IN THE WESTLANDS DEVELOPMENT, ON WOODBINE STREET AND WESTLANDS AVENUE WITHIN TWO MINUTES ACTUAL AND COMFORTABLE WALKING DISTANCE OF THE CHELMSFORD STREET LINE OF ELDT RAIL.

ON NEXT SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1923, AT 3 O'CLOCK P. M.

The uncompleted house is designed for seven rooms and pantry and bath, and is all finished on the outside, the electric wiring and all the plumbing with the exception of fixtures is also completed. The inside is all laid out ready for plastering. The roof is of Neponset fireproof shingles. This is a splendid chance for one to buy a home under construction, where the chances exist of securing a complete, and have the same finished as they may choose. The language used on the one floor, with modern open plumbing, bath, hot and cold water, gas, this furnace heat, all hardwood polished doors, electric lights, all lights turned on by switch, high pointed ornate ceiling. The roof is of Neponset fireproof shingles, and there is a most attractive open piazza extending the entire front of the house. The six-room cottage type dwelling also situated on Westlands Avenue, next to the corner of Woodbine Street, is thoroughly modern, with large living-room, dining-room and kitchen on the first floor and three bright sunny chambers and bath on the second. The house is supplied with electric lights, being turned on by a switch, hardwood floors throughout, hot wash trays, open plumbing, bath, Richardson furnace and cemented cellar. The house is setting on a lot of about one square feet each with frontages of 30 feet, thus affording ample space for lawns or garden or garage. With this sale ordered at public auction, a most unusual opportunity is given to home-seekers desiring of buying just outside the city limits, in a brand new and fast growing home development where practically all the houses in this entire section are of the single family type, thus assuring the owner of a neighborhood of high standards that will remain.

TERMS: $200 cash must be deposited with auctioneer on each, just as soon as struck off. Other terms made known at the sale.

Funeral Today of Beloved
Pastor of Highland Union
M. E. Church

The funeral of Rev. Joseph P. Kennedy, D.D., was held this afternoon at three o'clock, at the Highland Union M.E. church, where he had served as pastor for 18 months. The services, simple in character, were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, D.D., of Worcester, superintendent of the Worcester Methodist district. He was assisted by Rev. Edward A. Elliott, D.D., pastor of the Harvard Street church of Cambridge; Rev. Charles S. Otto, pastor of St. Paul's M.E. church; Rev. Ward A. Kilmer, pastor of the Centralville M.E. church; and Rev. J. Field Speed, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church. The church quartet, composed of Mr. Joseph Miller, Mr. N. W. Matthews, Miss Signa Reeds, and Miss Evelyn I. Streeter, sang appropriate selections. Mrs. Earl L. Huse was organist. Many beautiful flowers were heaped at the front of the church, completely hiding the pulpit platform. The Ministerial association of Lowell was represented by a delegation numbering 20 and Pentucket Lodge, A.F. and A.M., was represented by A. Gordon Foster, W.M., Percy J. Wilson, R.W., Lucius A. Derby, secretary, Rev. Albert C. White, chaplain, Roscoe C. Turner, senior deacon and Walter L. Leach. The ushers were Messrs. John M. Washburn, Elmer E. Elch, Prescott M. Pirkin, and J. Milton Washburn. The bearers were Messrs. Oscar Whitcomb, Wesley M. Wilder, Joseph W. Harrison, William D. Large, Edwin L. Sherwood and Henry J. Maguire. Burial will take place Sunday in the family lot in Green River cemetery, Greenfield, Mass. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George W. Healey.

SAR-YEM CLUB DANCE

A very successful dance held under the auspices of the Sar-Yem club last night, at the Highland club, was attended by a crowd of over 300 young people. Music for the dance was played by a Lowell orchestra and at intermission refreshments were served. The arrangements were in charge of Leo A. Danvers and Walter J. Sarcent, to whom the entire success of the affair is due.

ACCOMMODATING TAXPAYERS

Beginning today and on Saturdays from now on, Collector of Taxes Arthur W. Colburn of Dracut will hold office hours from 11:30 to 1 o'clock at the new Collinsville fire house to give the people of that section an opportunity to pay their tax bills without the necessity of going to the centre of Lowell. Mr. Colburn will keep his usual hours at the town office and at his Lowell office.

Miss Irene A. Robert, a popular young woman of this city, whose home is at 5 Bowers street, was agreeably surprised Thursday evening at the home of Miss Gertrude Carpenter, 5 Bowers street. The marriage of Miss Robert and Mr. Charles J. Dupuis will take place tomorrow afternoon at St. Joseph's rectory.

The festivities were attended by over 50 young women, who showered her with gifts of all descriptions, including a handsome electric floor lamp. Games were enjoyed and musical and literary numbers were given. Those taking part in the program being Misses Florida Blanchette, Esther Dumas, Gertrude Carpenter, Miss Groux, Miss Rose Tremblay, Miss Brunelle, Mrs. Joseph Laforge, Mrs. Henry Carpenter, Miss Blanche Laforge and Miss Gertrude Carpenter.

A feature of the evening was a mock marriage in which Miss Annie Laforge was the bride, Miss Frank McGowan as groom and Miss Belle Tremblay as officiant. A pleasing reading entitled "Music With the Rolling Pin" was given by Mrs. Frank McGowan. There was also dancing by Miss Cecilia Laforge and Miss Cecilia Tremblay. A buffet luncheon was served.

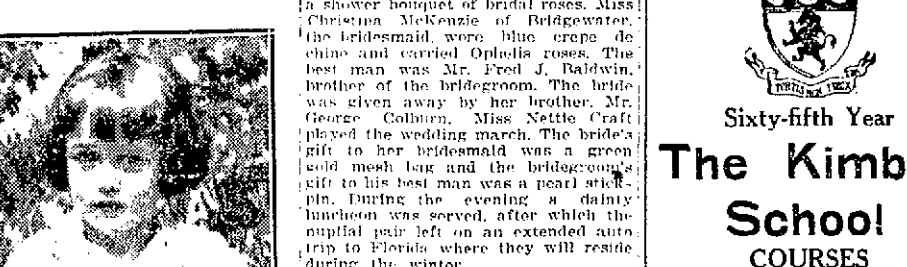

The home was handsomely decorated with streamers of pink and white with tiny electric bulbs and wedding bells hanging here and there. Favours were given to the guests.

Those responsible for the success of the affair were Miss Gertrude Carpenter and Miss Blanche Laforge. Those present included Jeanette Brunelle, Marie Anne Robert, Mrs. Jos. Roberts, Mrs. W. Carpenter, Miss Groux, Miss Tremblay, Mrs. H. Roberts, Mrs. A. Patenaude, Mrs. Jos. Laforge, Mrs. Dora Melancon, Mrs. Blanchette, Mrs. C. MATRIMONIAL

At a nuptial mass celebrated at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning Oct. 3, by Rev. James A. Supple, D.D., at St. Patrick's church, Mr. Michael Slattery and Miss Jennie Flannery were united in the bonds of matrimony. The bride was prettily attired in white Japanese gown with red veil caught up with ribbons of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Flannery, as bridesmaid, who wore yellow Georgette and black picture hat and carried Ophelia roses. Mr. Martin Slattery, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother in Lombard street. During the day Mr. and Mrs. Slattery left on a honeymoon tour to New York state and Washington, D. C. The couple will be at home to friends at 151 Moore street, after Nov. 1.

GAINED EIGHT POUNDS

This Little Girl Got New Strength from Father John's Medicine

"One of my neighbors told me about Father John's Medicine, and I gave it to my little girl when she was sick. Since taking it she has gained eight pounds and has a beautiful color. Now she can go out and play like the rest of the children. I am sending a picture of my daughter to show the benefits obtained from Father John's Medicine." (Signed) Mrs. R. L. Loherty, 419 Newfield Ave., Bridgeport, C. N.

The pure food elements in Father John's Medicine make new strength and health. It is a real body builder and not a stimulant because it is free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form.—Adv.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Violators of Liquor and Motor Laws Pay Penalty
Other Cases

In the district court today Andrew Brunelle was fined $150 on a charge of illegal keeping, but a similar complaint against Joseph Baljoly was dismissed because of lack of evidence. The two men were arrested at 225 Aiken street, and the officers testified that Brunelle was selling from a bottle on the hip.

Edward Farrar pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal keeping and also to interfering with an officer. He was fined $100 on the keeping charge and $10 on the other.

James E. Hunter was charged with drunkenness, operating an auto while under the influence of liquor, and operating without a license or registration. At his request the case was continued to next Saturday.

Cornelius Finnegan, who was arrested by Hunter, pleaded guilty to a charge of interfering with an officer and a fine of $25 was imposed. The pair were arrested by Officer Connors in Billerica yesterday, after Hunter had driven his car against a gas filling stand and a fence. It is alleged, as Officer Connors was making the arrest he said Finnegan attempted to hit him on the head with a bottle.

John Lawrence was fined $100 on a charge of illegal keeping, and in addition Lawrence was fined $10 on a charge of being present where gaming implements were found. Manuel Costa, Servilio Farnalia, Manuel Sardini and Antonio Visconcelles were also fined $10 each on charges of being present where gaming implements were found.

James Goldman was sentenced to the state farm for drunkenness, and John R. Michelin was fined $10 for drunkenness.

WALTON FIRES

2 LIEUTENANTS
Oklahoma Governor Removes Executive Counsellor and Bank Commissioner

Ousted Officials Had Been Foremost Lieutenants —
Successors Not Named

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 12.—(By the Associated Press.) Facing the crisis of his political career, Gov. J. C. Walton has cast aside two of his foremost lieutenants in the administration of Oklahoma affairs.

With a legislative impeachment court already investigating his official conduct, the governor last night ordered the removal from office of Al-drich Blake, the executive counsellor, and Dr. E. T. Bynum, state bank commissioner, both of whom, since the days of the primary campaign, have been his chief advisers and constant attendants.

The ousted officials went immediately before the house committee inquiring into impeachment charges against the governor and while the nature of their testimony was not made public, their appearance before the body was accepted as indication that their break with Gov. Walton was absolute.

Dr. Bynum had administered his office unsatisfactorily, the governor charged, and is out of harmony with the executive office.

Over the denial by Blake that the affair had any significance, the opinion gained strength in political quarters today that the address of former United States Senator Gore of Oklahoma, before the state legislature Thursday, precipitated the removals. Gov. Walton, it is argued by some, felt that their allegiance to him ended when they sponsored former Senator Gore's address, in which he severely criticized the administration.

Blake and Dr. Bynum promised statements soon.

Gov. Walton said he had not yet chosen successors to the two. The legislature is in adjournment until Monday, but the investigating committee is expected to continue its sittings today.
